National Intelligence Council Report On Global Trends:

Global Trends 2030 National Intelligence Council (U.S.),2012 This report is intended to stimulate thinking about the rapid and vast geopolitical changes characterizing the world today and possible global trajectories over the next 15 years As with the NIC s previous Global Trends reports we do not seek to predict the future which would be an impossible feat but instead provide a framework for thinking about possible futures and their implications In depth research detailed modeling and a variety of analytical tools drawn from public private and academic sources were employed in the production of Global Trends 2030 NIC leadership engaged with experts in nearly 20 countries from think tanks banks government offices and business groups to solicit reviews of the report

Global Trends 2040 National Intelligence Council,2021-03 The ongoing COVID 19 pandemic marks the most significant singular global disruption since World War II with health economic political and security implications that will ripple for years to come Global Trends 2040 2021 Global Trends 2040 A More Contested World 2021 released by the US National Intelligence Council is the latest report in its series of reports starting in 1997 about megatrends and the world s future This report strongly influenced by the COVID 19 pandemic paints a bleak picture of the future and describes a contested fragmented and turbulent world It specifically discusses the four main trends that will shape tomorrow s world Demographics by 2040 1 4 billion people will be added mostly in Africa and South Asia Economics increased government debt and concentrated economic power will escalate problems for the poor and middleclass Climate a hotter world will increase water food and health insecurity Technology the emergence of new technologies could both solve and cause problems for human life Students of trends policymakers entrepreneurs academics journalists and anyone eager for a glimpse into the next decades will find this report with colored graphs essential reading

Global Trends 2030 National Intelligence National Intelligence Council,Penny Hill Press,2015-12-04 This report is intended to stimulate thinking about the rapid and vast geopolitical changes characterizing the world today and possible global trajectories during the next 15 20 years As with the NI C s previous Global Trends reports we do not seek to predict the future which would be an impossible feat but instead provide a framework for thinking about possible futures and their implications

Global Trends: Paradox of Progress National Intelligence Council,2017-03-19 Thinking about the future is vital but hard Crises keep intruding making it all but impossible to look beyond daily headlines to what lies over the horizon In those circumstances thinking outside the box to use the cliché too often loses out to keeping up with the inbox That is why every four years the National Intelligence Council NIC undertakes a major assessment of the forces and choices shaping the world before us over the next two decades This version the sixth in the series is titled Global Trends The Paradox of Progress and we are proud of it It may look like a report but it is really an invitation an invitation to discuss debate and inquire further about how the future could unfold Certainly we do not pretend to have the definitive answer This edition of Global Trends revolves around a core argument about how the changing nature of power is increasing stress both within countries and between countries and bearing on vexing transnational issues The main section lays out the key trends explores their implications and offers up three scenarios to help readers imagine how different choices and developments could play out in very different ways over the next several decades Two annexes lay out more detail The first lays out five year forecasts for each region of the world The second provides more context on the key global trends in train The fact that the National Intelligence Council regularly publishes an unclassified assessment of the world surprises some people but our intent is to encourage open and informed discussions about future risks and opportunities Moreover Global Trends is unclassified because those screens of secrets that dominate our daily work are not of much help in peering out beyond a year or two What is a help is reaching out not just to experts and government officials but also to students women s groups entrepreneurs transparency advocates and beyond

Reducing Uncertainty Thomas Fingar, 2011-07-20 An look at what Intelligence Community analysts do and how and how they are affected by the political context that shapes uses and abuses their outputs The US government spends billions of dollars every year to reduce uncertainty to monitor and forecast everything from the weather to the spread of disease In other words we spend a lot of money to anticipate problems identify opportunities and avoid mistakes A substantial portion of what we spend over 50 billion a year goes to the US Intelligence Community

Reducing Uncertainty describes what Intelligence Community analysts do how they do it and how they are affected by the political context that shapes uses and sometimes abuses their output In particular it looks at why IC analysts pay more attention to threats than to opportunities and why they appear to focus more on warning about the possibility of bad things happening than on providing the input necessary for increasing the likelihood of positive outcomes The book is intended to increase public understanding of what IC analysts do to elicit more relevant and constructive suggestions for improvement from outside the Intelligence Community to stimulate innovation and collaboration among analysts at all grade levels in all agencies and to provide a core resource for students of intelligence The most valuable aspect of this book is the in depth discussion of National Intelligence Estimates NIE what they are what it means to say that they represent the most authoritative judgments of the Intelligence Community why and how they are important and why they have such high political salience and symbolic importance The final chapter lays out from an insider s perspective the story of the flawed Iraq Weapons of Mass Destruction WMD NIE and its impact on the subsequent Iran nuclear NIE paying particular attention to the heightened political scrutiny the latter received in Congress following the Iraq NIE debacle Praise for Reducing Uncertainty This is a well documented well written piece by a former high ranking member of the intelligence community

Recommended CHOICE Fingar provides a clear and useful tour of how intelligence analysis is produced Political Science Quarterly Tom Fingar provides a frank detailed examination of the challenges to and successes of the U S Intelligence Community In doing so he reveals insights and strategies that directly address our national security needs High stakes examples described by Fingar provide an insider account only he can provide The result is riveting and informative William J

Wir leben in einer bergangszeit Die unipolare Weltordnung unter hegemonialer Durchsetzungskraft der USA weicht einer multipolaren Ordnung Diese neue Ordnung verfgt weder ber einen umfassenden gesellschaftspolitischen Konsens noch basiert sie auf gefestigten Institutionen Sie ist weitestgehend durch partikulare Interessen bestimmt Deshalb mssen wir annehmen dass sie kaum in der Lage sein wird territoriale Sicherheit und friedliche Entwicklungsmglichkeiten zu gewhrleisten In diesem Prozess scheint die Europische Union aber mit Einschrnkungen auch Russland zwischen China und die USA zu geraten The United States and East Asia

Progress U. S. National Intelligence Council, 2018-02-07 The 2017 report Global Trends Paradox of Progress is the sixth in the Global Trends series released by the U S National Intelligence Council The inspiration for this report is the prosperity presumption the assumption among many that with increased prosperity other good things will follow happiness democracy and peace But the paradox of progress is that with the 2008 global financial crisis the Arab Spring and the rise of populist movements the world is also becoming a more dangerous place This report explores three scenarios or pathways for the next twenty years Islands scenario investigates a restructuring of the global economy with slow or no growth a popular pushback against globalization technology transforming work and increased political instability Orbits scenario explores a future of tensions created by competing major powers seeking their own spheres of influence while attempting to maintain stability at home This scenario includes the trend of rising nationalism and the use of a nuclear weapon Communities scenario describes how the diminishing capacity of governments open space for local governments and private actors It will become harder for governments to control their societies Although these three scenarios seem gloomy the same trends that create near term risks could also create long term opportunities This report asserts that those states and societies that will be using the full potential of all individuals will be the most successful The main report is followed by extensive annexes with five year forecasts for each region in the world including the Arctic and space and key global trends on how people live create prosper think govern and fight Students of trends forward looking entrepreneurs academics policymakers journalists and anyone eager for a glimpse into the next decades will find this essential reading Global Trends 2025

National Intelligence Council (U.S.), 2008-11-15 This report was prepared by the U S National Intelligence Council to show how key global trends might develop over the next 15 years to influence world events Given many possible futures it offers a range of possibilities It will stimulate strategic thinking by identifying key trends the factors that drive them where they seem to be headed and how they might interact The report examines a small number of variables that will have a disproportionate influence on future events Note this is a B W reprint of the color original SIECUS Report Sex Information and Education Council of the U.S.,2001 The War on Terrorism Thomas A. Johnson,2009 By promoting an understanding of both terrorism and the terrorist this volume examines the complexities inherent in creating a national security policy that combats terrorist attacks It examines the tools used by terrorist groups the infrastructure targets vulnerable to attack and our vulnerabilities to the five categories of WMDs Global Governance 2025 Álvaro de Vasconcelos,2010 Global governance the collective management of common problems at the international level is at a critical juncture Although global governance has been a relative success since its development after the Second World War the growing number of issues on the international agenda and their complexity is outpacing the ability of international organizations and national governments to cope Power shifts are also complicating global governance Introduction White Paper on Science and Technology ,2013 A Town Hall Meeting on the Impact of International Trade Agreements on Local, State, and Federal Lawmaking Authority California. Legislature. Senate. Select Committee on International Trade Policy and State Legislation,2001 The Middle East, Abstracts and Index ,2005 China's Rise Robert G. Sutter,2006 Executive Summary Foreign policy makers in the United States should not be misled by prevailing media and scholarly assessments that exaggerate China s influence in Asia relative to that of the United States In particular it would be a mistake for the Bush administration to give in to recent congressional media and interest group pressures that employ overstated assessments of China s increasing power in order to push for tough U S government policies to confront and compete with China This study shows that overt U S competition with China for influence is unwelcome in Asia counterproductive for U S interests in the region and unwarranted given the limited challenge posed by China s rise Prevailing assessments and commentaries about China s rise in Asia are unbalanced emphasizing China s strengths and the United States weaknesses With few exceptions they give inadequate attention to Chinese weaknesses and U S strengths This study demonstrates that China s recent success in Asia rests heavily on a fairly narrow foundation that is generally adroit Chinese diplomacy and intra Asian trade that is less significant than the reported figures of annual trade between China and its neighbors would suggest China s willingness and ability to lead in Asia is undermined notably by many domestic preoccupations nationalistic ambitions at odds with Asian neighbors and economic complications posed by China s rise as many countries in Asia are left further behind Moreover Chinese leaders and officials continue to follow policies that do not require either China or its neighboring countries to make significant changes sacrifices or commitments for one another that they would not ordinarily make Thus China s Asian approach focuses on easy things the low hanging fruit and avoids costly commitments or major risk By contrast U S leadership in Asia though challenged by unpopular policies in Southwest Asia and Korea along with insufficient attention in dealing with Asian governments remains strong in undertaking responsibilities and providing needed security and economic benefits to Asian states The United States continues to show influence in Asia in concrete ways notably by influencing Asian governments to do things they would not be inclined to do Predictions of an emerging order in Asia led by a rising China that will marginalize the United States illustrate how far many of the predominate unbalanced media and scholarly assessments have gone They reflect a poor understanding of the ambitions of Asian governments the resilience of U S power and leadership and the actual status of China s influence relative to that of the United States in Asian states around China s periphery To some extent a rising China that generally accommodates its neighbors benefits from the fluid post Cold War Asian order as various Asian governments seek to broaden international options with various powers in a continuing round of hedging and maneuvering for advantage But as China rises in influence in Asia this study shows that these same neighboring governments hedge and maneuver against possible Chinese dominance In this process they quietly seek closer ties with one another and particularly with the region s dominant power the United States America s advantages in this situation are strong The United States has a proven record of being able and willing to commit significant resources and prestige to protect allies and friends The United States is very powerful a superpower but it is far away from Asia and has none of the territorial and few of the other ambitions that characterize Asian powers Thus it is less distrusted by Asian governments in comparison with how these governments view one another including China As a result most Asian governments including China and all the major powers in Asia give higher priority to relations with the United States than to relations with any power in Asia In addition to being Asia s economic partner of choice and acknowledged security guarantor the United States has a leadership position in Asia that rests on a determined U S administration prepared to confront adversaries and opponents This position gives pause to Asian governments seeking to challenge or displace the United States The analysis in this monograph demonstrates that even hard line Chinese critics of U S hegemony in Asian and world affairs have been compelled in recent years to adopt a low posture in dealings with the United States choosing to wait as China builds comprehensive national power over the coming decades Chinese leaders are often frustrated by U S policies and power and desirous over the long term to see their periphery free of constricting U S great power involvement However they show little sign of deviating from efforts to expand influence in selected ways that tend to avoid directly challenging the United States Thus for the most part China s rise in Asia does not come at the expense of U S interests and is not a part of a zero-sum game resulting in the automatic decline of U S influence To enhance its position in Asia Washington should focus on repairing negative features of recent U S policy in Asia related to the fallout of its actions in Iraq the Middle East and Korea U S unilateralism in international politics and inattentiveness to the concerns of Asian governments over economic development nation building and multilateral cooperation This recommendation requires adjustments not a wholesale revamping of U S policies Backed by continued careful management of U S security commitments and economic relations with regional governments they will enhance the leading role of the United States in Asian affairs The prevailing tendency of Asian governments to hedge in the post Cold War environment seems likely to continue to pose challenges for U S management of alliance and other relations with Asian governments seeking more independence and freedom of action inclining some to seek closer ties with China among others Policymakers in the United States should not overreact to such maneuvers recognizing that such hedging continues to provide a prominent role for the United States as the region's well recognized security stabilizer and economic partner of choice In particular Chinese government leaders found that their overt efforts in the late 1990s to compel Asian governments to choose between a rising China and the United States failed in the face of Asian governments long unwillingness to do so The government should learn from this experience in seeking to advance its leadership in Asia without the overt competition with China that would try to force Asian governments to make such a choice probably with negative implications for U S leadership in Asia

Renewable Resources Journal ,2002 Confronting Terrorism in the Pursuit of Power Ashley J. Tellis,Michael Wills,2004
Strategic Asia 2004-05 Confronting Terrorism in the Pursuit of Power examines the U S led war on terrorism and assesses its impact for the grand strategies of major Asian powers Confronting Terrorism in the Pursuit of Power is the fourth edition in the Strategic Asia series and this year's volume is composed of five country studies four regional studies and four topical studies Individual country studies analyze the United States China Japan Korea and Russia Regional studies cover Central South Southeast and Southwest Asia The four topical studies address how broader transnational issues impact regional political economic and security dynamics Topics for this year's program include energy security in Asia the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction alternative futures for North Korea and science and technology trends in Asia All chapters examine the short and long term implications for U S interests in Asia and aim to sharpen the ability of U S policymakers to craft effective and credible strategies toward the region Asian Survey ,2006-07
