Public Health Aspects of HIV/AIDS in Low and Middle Income Countries David Celentano,Chris Beyrer,2008-09-11 It has now been 25 years since the apocryphal report in the CDC Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report dated June 5 1981 entitled Pneumocystis Pneumonia Los Angeles which announced what was to become HIV AIDS HIV has now affected virtually all countries that have looked for it and has had a devastating impact on the public health and medical care infrastructure around the world HIV AIDS has also disproportionately affected nations with the least capacity to confront it especially the developing world nations in Sub Saharan Africa South and Southeast Asia and the emerging republics of Eastern and Central Asia The pandemic unlike any other disease of our time has had profound impacts on the practice of public health itself bringing affected communities into decision making demanding North South partnerships and collaborations and changing the basic conduct of clinical and prevention trials research While much has been written in scholarly publications for medical epidemiologic and disease control specialists there is no comprehensive review of the public health impact and response to HIV AIDS in the developing world This edited volume seeks to systematically describe the emergence and form of the epidemics epidemiology the social community and political response and the various measures to confront and control the epidemic with varying levels of success Of particular importance are strategies that appear to have been useful in ameliorating the epidemic while contrasting the situation in a neighboring country or region where contrasting prevention or care initiatives have had a deleterious outcome Common to all responses has been the international multi sectoral response represented by the Global Fund for HIV AIDS Malaria and Tuberculosis the President s Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief and the Gates Foundation among others to promote HIV pharmacologic therapy in resource poor settings The chapter authors will explore the political challenges in meeting HIV AIDS prevention and care in concert with the public health realities in specific country and regional context

Executive Board,2007 Lesotho National Human Development Report ,2015 The United Nations world water development report, 2017 WWAP,UNESCO,2017-03-15 The United Nations World Water Assessment Programme WWAP is hosted and led by UNESCO WWAP brings together the work of 31 UN Water Members and 38 Partners to publish The United Nations World Water Development Report WWDR series The annual World Water Development Reports focus on strategic water issues UN Water Members and Partners all experts in their respective fields contribute the latest findings on a specific theme The 2017 edition of the World Water Development Report focuses on Wastewater and seeks to inform decision makers inside and outside the water community about the importance of managing wastewater as an undervalued and sustainable source of water energy nutrients and other recoverable by products rather than something to be disposed of or a nuisance to be ignored The report s title Wastewater The Untapped Resource reflects the critical role that wastewater is poised to play in the context of a circular economy whereby economic development is balanced with the protection of natural resources and environmental sustainability and where a cleaner and more sustainable economy has a positive effect on the water quality Improved wastewater management is not only critical to achieving the Sustainable Development Goal on clean water and sanitation SDG 6 but also to other goals of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development Human Development Report 2007/2008 United Nations Development Programme,2007-11-15 Human development is about putting people at the center of development It is about people realizing their potential increasing choice and enjoying the freedom to lead the lives they value Created in 1990 the Human Development Report has explored themes including gender equity democracy human rights globalization cultural liberty and water scarcity The past years have witnessed the emergence of a growing consensus on climate change Governments across the world have seen the warning signs The science linking global warming to human activity is unequivocal The economic case for action is compelling the costs of inaction will heavily outweigh the costs of action Yet the politics lags behind the science and the economics Collectively the world's governments are failing to act with the urgency demanded by the scale of the threat The window of opportunity for avoiding dangerous climate change is closing fast This year's Human Development Report explains why we have less than a decade to change course and start living within our global carbon budget It explains how climate change will create long run low human development traps pushing vulnerable people into a downward spiral of deprivation Because climate change is a global problem with global causes and effects it demands a global response with countries acting on the basis of their historic responsibility and capabilities The Asia-Pacific Human Development Report, 2010 Arab Human Development Report 2009 United Nations Development Programme. Regional Bureau for Arab States, 2009 The Arab Human Development Report aims at building human development in the Arab world Gender inequality is generally recognized as one of the main obstacles to development in the Arab Region This volume of the report focuses on the history and contemporary dynamics of Arab women's economic political and social empowerment It details the processes in which gender impacts on Arab development while suggesting means of overcoming some of the challenges and building more equitable societies Addressing the Impact of the Phasing Out of Textiles and Clothing Quotas in Lao PDR.: Diversification and value addition in Lao PDR : case studies on tourism, handicraft and food processing sectors, 2007 Social Inequality in Australia Daphne Habibis, Maggie Walter, 2009 Social Inequality Australia at the Crossroads provides comprehensive coverage of the key dimensions of the nature and extent of inequality and difference in Australian society Incorporating debates about the effects of globalization on inequality and difference in Australia it also considers the role of culture in the social reproduction of hierarchy and difference Arguments about the nature of inequality are tested against empirical evidence and case studies in each chapter provide examples to aid understanding FDI in Tourism United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, 2007 Many developing countries are looking to tourism as a potentially promising avenue for economic and human development This is a relatively new position for some countries and reflects the rapid increase in tourism in terms of both numbers of arrivals and revenues for several economies in recent years FDI is one of the routes through which developing countries can carry out tourism but the dynamics of FDI in this dynamic sector and its implications have been relatively little studied A significant part of tourism's development potential stems from the fact that it links together a series of cross cutting activities involving the provision of goods and services such as accommodation transport entertainment construction and agricultural and fisheries production On the other hand tourism is a sensitive sector that is vulnerable to external shocks economic environmental and political as well as potentially creating problems of its own Contrary to common perceptions one finding of this study is that FDI in tourism is relatively low compared to other globalized activities including services such as telecommunications or finance and compared to domestic investment FDI exists in only a small number of the many diverse activities that comprise what could be called the international tourism economy The main investments are in hotels and restaurants with little FDI in airlines

although this is growing and in high profile and important activities such as tour operations or global reservation systems Tourism related FDI is also largely concentrated in developed countries
