Jai Perdu Fin Kossakowski Happenings:

J'ai Perdu La Fin!!! Michael Bracewell, 2014-07 This book presents an in depth study of the highly original collaboration between two outstanding Polish artists of the post war era the legendary conceptual artist Edward Krasinski and the photographer Eustachy Kossakowski Both artists were central protagonists of the Foksal Gallery in Warsaw founded in 1966 as a sphere of groundbreaking experimentation in the Communist era The creative interaction and exchange between Edward Krasinski and Eustachy Kossakowski spans from 1964 1970 when the latter immigrated to Paris Krasinski developed in these years his seminal concept of the Blue Line a strip of scotch tape extending horizontally in a given space In 1964 Krasinski enacted his piece Spear in a field which was the first happening his friend Kossakowski originally a reportage photographer captured with his camera The illusion the artists created in the remaining photo series was much like he would enact in his pivotal piece J ai Perdu La Fin in which he pretends to have lost the end of a cable cord This exciting publication in collaboration with Broadway 1602 New York presents Krasinski s happenings and mise en sc nes in the first comprehensive volume focusing specifically on his partnership with Kossakowski Never intended for an audience they were strictly composed for Kossakowski s camera resulting in an original marriage of conceptual restraint and laconic humour
