Climate Change Adaptation, Disaster Risk Reduction and Human Rights in International Law Riccardo Luporini, 2025-07-21 Climate change poses an escalating challenge to global society with climate related disasters becoming more frequent severe and widespread in their impact on individuals and communities and in their interference with human rights To confront this challenge States must not only mitigate climate change by reducing greenhouse gas emissions but also adopt comprehensive measures to adapt to its effects and manage climate change related disaster risk This book provides an in depth analysis of the international legal frameworks governing climate change adaptation and disaster risk reduction focusing on the critical role of human rights in strengthening these frameworks and ensuring their implementation The study explores the extent to which human rights have been integrated into international climate change and disaster law examines how climate change related disaster risk is addressed within international human rights law and assesses the growing trend of human rights based climate change and disaster litigation and its potential regulatory impact The book offers a unique perspective on international lawmaking in the fields of climate change and disaster management while also shedding light on the ongoing development of human rights law as it seeks to address the unprecedented threats posed by climate change and its associated risks

Rewilding in Practice Ian Convery, Steve Carver, Monica T. Engel, Sally Hawkins, Rene Beyers, Yue Cao, 2025-03-03 Rewilding is a long term and large scale process which works to restore degraded ecosystems or social ecological systems to the point that they are resilient and self sustaining and therefore requiring little in terms of conservation management Rewilding practice focuses on re establishing ecological processes including trophic levels that were lost mainly due to anthropogenic disturbance It also aims to affect a paradigm shift in human nature relationships with intentions to better understand the interdependencies between humans and nature so that people can appreciate and accommodate nature in their landscapes and make more informed and sustainable decisions about how we live In this sense rewilding has real transformational potential

Using NEPA to Combat Global Warming David L. Keys, 2024-09-16 This book will help policy makers university students and the general public understand how the National Environmental Policy Act NEPA is intended to work and how it can be used to reduce greenhouse gas GHG emissions in order to combat global warming Unlike all other books on NEPA this book focuses on the global warming problem in terms of thermodynamics and entropy It explains how NEPA can help combat global warming by operationalizing the energy requirements and conservation potential analysis requirement in the Council on Environmental Quality CEQ regulations 40 CFR 1502.16(a)(7) and it puts the past present and future of the NEPA statute the CEQ regulations and energy analysis requirements all in one easy to find portable place It will be an excellent resource for university students and teachers policy analysts and those members of the public that want to know all about the NEPA Process As a third edition the book contains new analysis on the amended NEPA statute 2023 and revised CEQ regulations 2024 CEQ's January 9 2023 interim guidance on how to incorporate GHG emissions into NEPA documents the social costs of carbon the long term strategy of the United States to get to net zero GHG by 2050 assessing climate risk in NEPA reviews and the link between energy requirements analysis required by 40 CFR 1502.16(a)(7) and reduced GHG emissions
