Domestic and Foreign Mutual Funds in Mexico Jasmine Xiao, 2015-05-13 This paper utilizes a new dataset of foreign and domestic mutual funds in Mexico to assess their behavior and obtains three new findings First foreign mutual funds are more sensitive to global financial conditions and engage more in herding and positive feedback trading than domestic mutual funds notably during episodes of market stress Second the behavior of foreign funds differs substantially across types of funds bond funds are more sensitive to global factors and engage more in positive feedback trading than equity funds funds sold to retail investors open end funds small funds and regional funds also appear to be less stable sources of capital flows Third there is indicative evidence that foreign funds trading behavior is associated with higher local market volatilities notably in periods of market stress however domestic mutual fund investors played some mitigating role

Rediscovering Economic Policy as a Discipline Nicola Acocella, 2018-07-26 Government interventions in market failures can encounter objections from those who doubt their efficacy Acocella a leading expert on economic policy counters these unfounded criticisms making the convincing case for the foundation coordination and reach of government action through economic policy Arguing for the governmental potential to devise democratic fair and effective institutions and policies this book also demonstrates the validity of the principles outlined by Frisch and Tinbergen amongst others for controlling the economy in a strategic context equivalent to the rational expectations assumption Demonstrating how unconventional monetary policies such as macro prudential regulation new fiscal rules and new forms of international policy coordination can offer an effective response to the multiplicity of current economic issues the recent financial crisis arguably indicates that economic policy must once again take centre stage as the applied complement to mainstream economic theory
