hospitality exacerbated by the relatively recently constructed and misplaced feeling of a civilisational threat from Islam. Migration is then countered by the escalation of new nationalisms at least some of which are supported by populism. This book offers an understanding of this conjunction of migration and nationalism in the post-cold war European context. More specifically, the book takes up how the end of the simplified cold war cognitive binary means an unprecedented epistemological confusion and depoliticisation which takes migration as its target but could resort to other targets too. Discussing the postcolonial background to the new migrations, the book also considers women's rights, postsocialism, and the relevance of the current pandemic as the issue of migration is addressed in the context of the European crisis-ridden present. This wide-ranging interrogation of how contemporary European migration is conceived and understood will appeal to students, academics, activists, policy makers, and others with interests in contemporary migration, new nationalisms, populism, feminism, colonial, postcolonial, and decolonial issues, as well as socialism and postsocialism.
