Kenya is known for her sporting prowess. Moni Wekesa acknowledges that Kenyan athletes have dominated major track and field competitions since the 1960s, to date. He is of the notion that the sustained interest in sports and in particular Athletics could be fuelled in part by the ever increasing commercialization in sport, where winners are known to earn bumper cash prizes at one athletics meeting/competitions. In 2023 Hellen Obiri won the Boston Marathon and the New York City Marathon and amassed a total of Ksh. 35,713,750/- making her the highest paid Kenyan track and field athlete in 2023. He further goes on to describe the development of Sports in Kenya which he suggests that it was done on the sideline of the then public authority, as sports has always derived its own rules, thus it could be said that Sports is governed by Private law. As a result, it gave rise to the various sports organisations with the International Olympic Committee at the top, followed by international sports federations such as IAAF, then Continental federations and National federations in the middle and lastly the clubs at the bottom. Distortions to Agricultural Incentives in Africa Kym Anderson,William A. Masters,2009-03-13 The vast majority of the world s poorest households depend on farming for their livelihoods During the 1960s and 1970s most developing countries imposed pro urban and anti agricultural policies while many high income countries restricted agricultural imports and subsidized their farmers Both sets of policies inhibited economic growth and poverty alleviation in developing countries Although progress has been made over the past two decades to reduce those policy biases many trade and welfare reducing price distortions remain between agriculture and other sectors and within the agricultural sector of both rich and poor countries Comprehensive empirical studies of the disarray in world agricultural markets appeared approximately 20 years ago Since then the Organisation for Economic Co operation and Development has provided estimates each year of market distortions in high income countries but there have been no comparable estimates for the world s developing countries This volume is the third in a series other volumes cover Asia Europe s transition economies and Latin America and the Caribbean that not only fills that void for recent years but extends the estimates in a consistent and comparable way back in time and provides analytical narratives for scores of countries that shed light on the evolving nature and extent of policy interventions over the past half century Distortions to Agricultural Incentives in Africa provides an overview of the evolution of distortions to agricultural incentives caused by price and trade policies in the Arab Republic of Egypt plus 20 countries that account for about of 90 percent of Sub Saharan Africa s population farm households agricultural output and overall GDP Sectoral trade and exchange rate policies in the region have changed greatly since the 1950s and there have been substantial reforms since the 1980s

Nonetheless numerous price distortions in this region remain others have been added in recent years and there has also been some backsliding such as in Zimbabwe The new empirical indicators in these country studies provide a strong evidence based foundation for assessing the successes and failures of the past and for evaluating policy options for the years ahead
