The image shows the front cover and the first page of the COPM form. The cover is white with a red and orange geometric design at the bottom. The title "COPM" is in large black letters, with a red maple leaf inside the "O". Below it, "Canadian Occupational Performance Measure" is written in a smaller font. The first page is white with a red border. It contains a paragraph about the COPM, a list of its uses, and a section for client information with fields for name, date of birth, initial assessment, and re-assessment. The text on the form is as follows:

The Canadian Occupational Performance Measure (COPM) supports high-quality, client-centred, occupation-based practice. The COPM is an individualized measure designed to detect change in a client's self-perception of occupational performance over time. The COPM is intended for use as an outcome measure. As such, it should be administered at the beginning of a client's intervention, to establish baseline goals, and again at an appropriate interval thereafter to determine progress and outcome.

The COPM is used to:

- identify problem areas in self-perceived occupational performance;
- provide a rating of the client's perception of occupational performance;
- evaluate performance and satisfaction relative to those problem areas;
- provide the basis for goal setting; and,
- measure changes in a client's perception of his/her occupational performance over the course of occupational therapy intervention.
