Memorandum Geography Grade 1 September 2013:

A Global Idea Mayssoun Sukarieh, 2023-08-15 A Global Idea outlines how youth as shown by the Arab Spring uprisings and subsequent state responses became a prominent social and political category during the first two decades of the twenty first century in the Middle East Drawing on ethnographic fieldwork interview data and textual analysis Mayssoun Sukarieh explains that the spread of youth as an important category is linked to the operation of a global youth development complex a diverse transnational network of state private sector civil society and international development aid organizations that worked through key urban areas such as Washington DC Amman and Dubai In its analysis of the arrival extension and embedding of the youth development complex in the Middle East during this period A Global Idea addresses a broader question that is of global and not just regional concern How are certain ideas that are central to the working and reproduction of global capitalism able to travel the world so that they are found virtually everywhere

The Meritocracy Trap Daniel Markovits, 2020-09-08 A revolutionary new argument from eminent Yale Law professor Daniel Markovits attacking the false promise of meritocracy It is an axiom of American life that advantage should be earned through ability and effort Even as the country divides itself at every turn the meritocratic ideal that social and economic rewards should follow achievement rather than breeding reigns supreme Both Democrats and Republicans insistently repeat meritocratic notions Meritocracy cuts to the heart of who we are It sustains the American dream But what if both up and down the social ladder meritocracy is a sham Today meritocracy has become exactly what it was conceived to resist a mechanism for the concentration and dynastic transmission of wealth and privilege across generations Upward mobility has become a fantasy and the embattled middle classes are now more likely to sink into the working poor than to rise into the professional elite At the same time meritocracy now ensnares even those who manage to claw their way to the top requiring rich adults to work with crushing intensity exploiting their expensive educations in order to extract a return All this is not the result of deviations or retreats from meritocracy but rather stems directly from meritocracy's successes This is the radical argument that Daniel Markovits prosecutes with rare force Markovits is well placed to expose the sham of meritocracy Having spent his life at elite universities he knows from the inside the corrosive system we are trapped within Markovits also knows that if we understand that meritocratic inequality produces near universal harm we can cure it When The Meritocracy Trap reveals the inner workings of the meritocratic machine it also illuminates the first steps outward towards a new world that might once again afford dignity and prosperity to the American people

Waste of a Nation Assa Doron, Robin Jeffrey, 2018-03-26 Assa Doron and Robin Jeffrey argue that in India the removal and reuse of waste lays waste to human lives People at the bottom are injured and stigmatized as they work with sewage toxic chemicals and rotting garbage If India is to emerge as a model for the world its policies will have to reach beyond the environment to encompass empathy

New Labor in New York Ruth Milkman, Edward Ott, 2014-03-07 New York City boasts a higher rate of unionization than any other major U S city roughly double the national average but the city's unions have suffered steady and relentless decline especially in the private sector. With higher levels of income inequality than any other large city in the nation, New York today is home to a large and growing precariat: workers with little or no employment security who are often excluded from the basic legal protections that unions struggled for and won in the twentieth century. Community-based organizations and worker centers have developed the most promising approach to organizing the new precariat and to addressing the crisis facing the labor movement. Home to some of the nation's very first worker centers, New York City today has the single largest concentration of these organizations in the United States; yet until now no one has documented their efforts. New Labor in New York includes thirteen fine-grained case studies of recent campaigns by worker centers and unions, each of which is based on original research and participant observation. Some of the campaigns documented here involve taxi drivers, street vendors, and domestic workers, as well as middle-strata freelancers, all of whom are excluded from basic employment laws. Other cases focus on supermarket retail and restaurant workers who are nominally covered by such laws but who often experience wage theft and other legal violations. Still other campaigns are not restricted to a single occupation or industry. This book offers a richly detailed portrait of the new labor movement in New York City, as well as several recent efforts to expand that movement from the local to the national scale. Towards a Political Economy of Resource-dependent Regions Greg Halseth, Laura Ryser, 2017-08-18 This book advances our understanding of resource-dependent regions in developed economies in the 21st Century. It explores how rural and small-town places are working to find success in a new economy marked by demographic, economic, social, cultural, political, and environmental change. How are we to understand the changes and transformations working through communities and economies? Where are the trajectories of change leading these resource-dependent places and regions? Drawing upon examples from Canada, USA, UK, Australia, New Zealand, and the Nordic countries, these and other questions are explored and addressed by constructing a critical political economy framework of resource hinterland transition. Towards a Political Economy of Resource-Dependent Regions is a key resource for students and researchers in geography, rural and industrial sociology, economics, environmental studies, political science, regional studies, and planning, as well as policy makers, those in industry, and the private sector, and local and regional development practitioners.
