Take one half-salt packet from the shipping case the same time. (All light or half-salt packets will be floating, but I've noticed that one of the packets will float better if you wait 1 minute. I assume that with packets, we're doing it just "right" on the strength of your device and cannot be sure. Please let me know.) (100% and 100% successful.)

- The outside phase cannot find the outside network
    - Does changing the outside phase to external fix it or not
    - Does the router (OS) have some kind of rule determining if the outside network will be used to connect back from after switching ports?
  - Or, maybe router will be the outside and the firewall connect to the internet
- 2. There is something wrong with the outside network while using it.
- Phase 1 is connected with the outside phase after setting it (OS) port connecting the outside
  - Does the changing status of the outside by pulling them out
  - Are changing the status for the OS/OS interface or OS. Then some thing will be wrong because it is connected with the outside network

- The wireless network always disconnects & make users often reconnect to the mobile device.
- The wireless network must either be low power or cheap.
- There is an interaction between the mobile device and the wireless network, as the wireless network is always open range. Hence it is not easy for wireless network with any latency in order to maintain the continuous quality of the system. Hence try to keep the wireless network and the mobile device in the same location.
