La Russie Inquiétante De Poutine:

The Spiral of "Anti-Other Rhetoric" Elisabeth Le, 2006-08-22 How do media inform our representations of the Other and how does this influence intercultural international relations While officially dialogues between different national societies are conducted by diplomats in bilateral and multilateral settings in practice journalists also participate every day in such dialogues through the phenomenon of the international media echo in which they report on each others societies Until now media have only been investigated for their potential role in the foreign policy of specific states In a case study involving media in three national cultures and languages French American and Russian this book presents an interdisciplinary framework that combines quantitative and qualitative analyses for the study of the international media echo in an intercultural international relations perspective In particular the fundamental functioning of spirals of anti Other rhetoric in media wars is examined in a Critical Discourse Analysis approach completed with Social Identity Theory and International Relations theories

Editorials and the Power of Media Elisabeth Le, 2010-01-13 Editorials define at a given time how media construct their socio cultural environment and where they position themselves in it In this sense they are snapshots of media socio cultural identities whose study is crucial for the understanding of media actions and interactions on the political stage This book contributes to the study of media roles in politics with a methodological discursive communication identity framework and its application to a corpus of editorials This allows for the definition of editorials as a genre and it reveals that thanks to a very adroit interweaving of their socio cultural identities news media can play a much more active role on the political stage than studies on framing and agenda setting have hitherto shown The place of media in political communication models might therefore need to be reviewed This book is intended for all those interested in media and politics whatever their academic specializations
