Relativity and Scientific Computing Friedrich W Hehl, Roland A. Puntigam, Hanns Ruder, 2012-12-06 For this set of lectures we assumed that the reader has a reasonable background in physics and some knowledge of general relativity the modern theory of gravity in macrophysics and cosmology Computer methods are presented by leading experts in the three main domains in numerics in computer algebra and in visualization The idea was that each of these subdisciplines is introduced by an extended set of main lectures and that each is conceived as being of comparable importance Therefore we believe that the book represents a good introduction into scientific computing for any student who wants to specialize in relativity gravitation and or astrophysics We took great care to select lecturers who teach in a comprehensible way and who are at the same time at the research front of their respective field In numerics we had the privilege of having a lecturer from the National Center for Supercomputing Applications NCSA Champaign IL USA and some from other leading institutions of the world visualization was taught by a visualization expert from Boeing and in computer algebra we took recourse to practitioners of different computer algebra systems as applied to classical general relativity up to quantum gravity and differential geometry
