

Meiosis

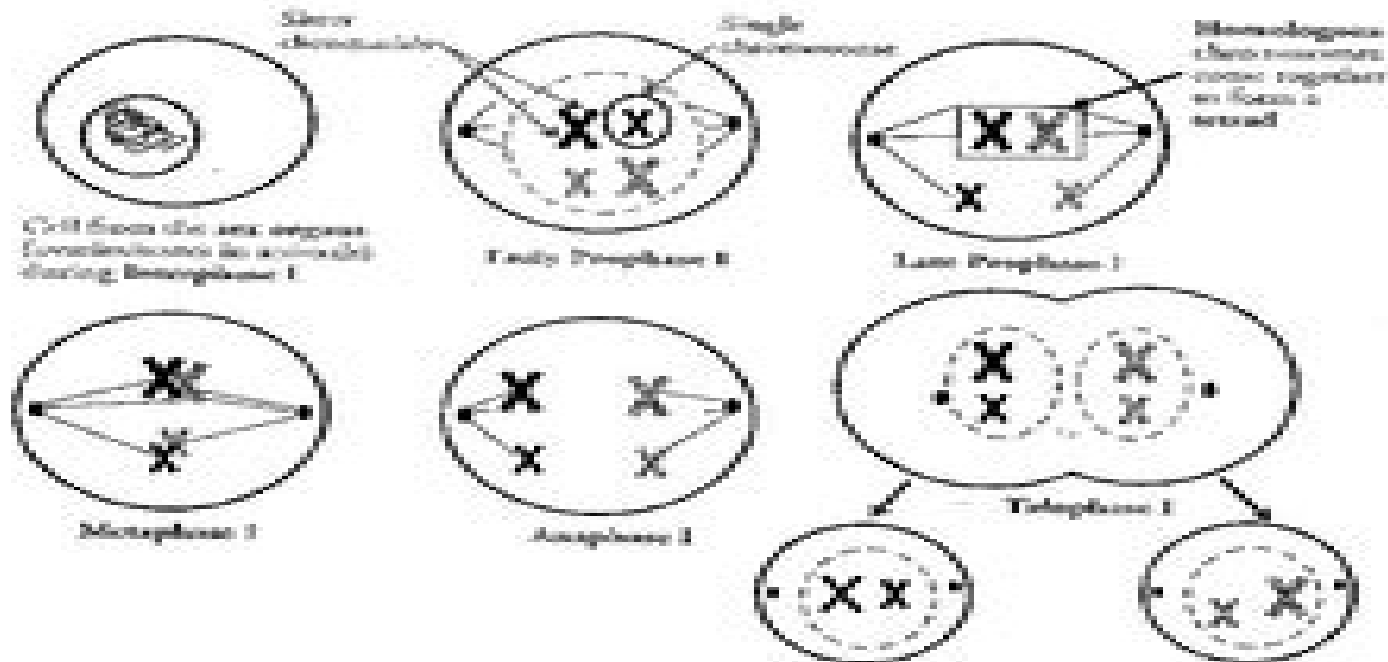

How does sexual reproduction lead to genetic variation?

KEY

Why?

Cells reproduce through mitosis to make exact copies of the original cell. This is done for growth and repair. Sexually-reproducing organisms have a second form of cell division that produces reproductive cells with half the number of chromosomes. This process is called meiosis, and without it, humans, oak trees, bacteria, and all other sexually-reproducing organisms would be very different than they are today.

Model 1 – Meiosis I

1. According to Model 1, in what type of organs are the cells that make meiosis I found?
Sex organs (ovaries and testes).
2. Considering what you already know about animals in cells, what events must take place during Anaphase before a cell proceeds to division?
DNA replication.

Child Development and

Education Teresa M. McDevitt, Jeanne Ellis Ormrod, Glenn Cupit, Margaret Chandler, Valarie Aloa, 2012-08-21 Child Development and Education is a comprehensive child development text written especially for educators. It helps students to translate developmental theories into practical implications for teaching and caring for youngsters with diverse backgrounds, characteristics, and needs. The text draws from innumerable theoretical concepts, research studies conducted around the world, and the authors' own experiences as parents, teachers, psychologists, and researchers to identify strategies for promoting young people's physical, cognitive, and social/emotional growth. In this Australian edition, contemporary Australian and New Zealand research has been highlighted, and local educational structures, philosophies, and controversies have been reflected.

Reproductive Endocrinology Samuel S. C. Yen, Robert B. Jaffe, Robert L. Barbieri, 1999. This updated and revised edition offers the latest information and many new tables and illustrations. Now includes information on endocrinology of the breast, infertility, and new technology in the field of endocrinology from over 25 leading contributors.

International Conference of the Learning Sciences Barry J. Fishman, Samuel F. O'Connor-Divelbiss, 2013-04-15. The field of the learning sciences is concerned with educational research from the dual perspectives of human cognition and computing technologies and the application of this research in three integrated areas: Design, Design of learning and teaching environments, tools or media including innovative curricula, multimedia, artificial intelligence, telecommunications technologies, visualization, modeling, and design theories and activity structures for supporting learning and teaching. Cognition: Models of the structures and processes of learning and teaching by which knowledge, skills, and understanding are developed, including the psychological foundations of the field, learning in content areas, professional learning, and the study of learning enabled by tools or social structures. Social Context: The social, organizational, and cultural dynamics of learning and teaching across the range of formal and informal settings, including schools, museums, homes, families, and professional settings. Investigations in the learning sciences approach these issues from an interdisciplinary stance, combining the traditional disciplines of computer science, cognitive science, and education. This book documents the proceedings of the Fourth International Conference on the Learning Sciences (ICLS 2000), which brought together experts from academia, industry, and education to discuss the application of theoretical and empirical knowledge from learning sciences research to practice in K-12 or higher education, corporate training, and learning in the home or other informal settings.
