Maplecroft Climate Change Risk Report:

Climate Change Impacts on Ocean and Coastal Law Randall Abate, 2015 Ocean and coastal law has grown rapidly in the past three decades as a specialty area within natural resources law and environmental law. The protection of oceans has received increased attention in the past decade because of sea level rise, ocean acidification, the global overfishing crisis, widespread depletion of marine biodiversity such as marine mammals and coral reefs, and marine pollution. Paralleling the growth of ocean and coastal law, climate change regulation has emerged as a focus of international environmental diplomacy and has gained increased attention in the wake of disturbing and abrupt climate change related impacts throughout the world that have profound implications for ocean and coastal regulation and marine resources. Climate Change Impacts on Ocean and Coastal Law effectively unites these two worlds. It raises important questions about whether and how ocean and coastal law will respond to the regulatory challenges that climate change presents to resources in the oceans and coasts of the U.S. and the world. This comprehensive work assembles the insights of global experts from academia and major NGOs, e.g. Center for International Environmental Law, Ocean Conservancy, and Environmental Law Institute, to address regulatory challenges from the perspectives of U.S. law, foreign domestic law, and international law. Developing European Internal Security Policy Christian Kaunert, Sarah Léonard, 2014-06-03 The European Union (EU) is making strong inroads into areas of security traditionally reserved to states, especially into internal security or Justice and Home Affairs. The Area of Freedom, Security, and Justice (AFSJ), as it has been renamed in the Amsterdam Treaty, has seen significant policy developments since the late 1990s. In fact, there has been no other example of a policy-making area making its way so quickly and comprehensively to the centre of the treaties and to the top of the EU's policy-making agenda. After major treaty revisions in Maastricht, Amsterdam, Nice, and finally the Lisbon Treaty, which entered into force on 1 December 2009, as well as an increased political impetus through the European Council Summits in Tampere (1999), the Hague (2004), and Stockholm (2009), the area appears as one of the most promising policy fields for integration in the EU in the foreseeable future. This process has deepened even more significantly after the terrorist attacks on 11 September 2001 in the United States, on 11 March 2004 in Madrid, and on 7 July 2005 in London. This book is the first to analyse these hugely topical developments in European internal security at both the treaty and policy levels, as well as its implementation at the national level from various disciplinary perspectives: political science, law, criminology, etc. This book was published as a special edition of European Security. International Arbitration in the Energy Sector Maxi Scherer, 2018-02-22 Disputes in the energy and natural resources sector are at the heart of international arbitration. With more arbitrations arising in the international energy sector than in any other sector, it is not surprising that the highest valued awards in the history of arbitration come from energy-related arbitrations. Energy disputes often involve complex and controversial issues relating to security, sovereignty, and public welfare. International Arbitration in the Energy Sector puts international energy disputes into a global context, providing broad coverage of different forms and systems of dispute resolution across both renewable and non renewable sectors With contributions from leading arbitrators academics and industry experts from across the globe the twenty chapters in the book enable readers to compare the approaches to and learnings from energy arbitrations across various legal systems and geographic regions After outlining the international energy arbitration legal framework in Part I the text delves into a detailed analysis of the problems which regularly arise in practice These include among other things commercial disputes in Part II e g over the upstream oil sector and long term gas supply contracts investor state disputes in Part III e g under the Energy Charter Treaty and public international law disputes in Part IV e g concerning international boundaries and the distribution of natural resources Alongside recent developments in the international energy sector attention is given to climate and sustainable development disputes which raise important questions about enforcing sustainability objectives on individuals corporations and states Backed by analyses of arbitral awards national court and international tribunal decisions treaties and other international legal instruments as well as current events and news in the energy industry this text offers a unique contribution to international energy literature and provides insightful commentary on the prevalent issues in the field It is essential reading for any practitioner or researcher in the energy and natural resources sector
