Uitto,Jyotsna Puri,Rob D. van den Berg,2017-01-11 This book is open access under a Creative Commons license This authoritative book presents the ever progressing state of the art in evaluating climate change strategies and action It builds upon a selection of relevant and practical papers and presentations given at the 2nd International Conference on Evaluating Climate Change and Development held in Washington DC in 2014 and includes perspectives from independent evaluations of the major international organisations supporting climate action in developing countries such as the Global Environment Facility The first section of the book sets the stage and provides an overview of independent evaluations carried out by multilateral development banks and development organisations. Important topics include how policies and organisations aim to achieve impact and how this is measured, whether climate change is mainstreamed into other development programs and whether operations are meeting the urgency of climate change challenges. The following sections focus on evaluation of climate change projects and policies as they link to development from the perspective of international organisations, NGOs, multilateral and bilateral aid agencies and academia. The authors share methodologies or approaches used to better understand problems and assess interventions, strategies and policies. They also share challenges encountered, what was done to solve these and lessons learned from evaluations. Collectively, the authors illustrate the importance of evaluation in providing evidence to guide policy change to informed decision making.

ADDRESSING AGRICULTURE, FORESTRY AND FISHERIES IN NATIONAL ADAPTATION PLANS Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-05-24. The Addressing agriculture, forestry and fisheries in National Adaptation Plans Supplementary guidelines (NAP Ag Guidelines) provide specific guidance for national adaptation planning in the agricultural sectors. They are intended to be used by national planners and decision makers working on climate change issues in developing countries and authorities and experts within the agriculture sectors who are contributing to climate change adaptation and NAP formulation and implementation.

Climate Change 2022 - Impacts, Adaptation and Vulnerability Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC), 2023-06-22. The Working Group II contribution to the Sixth Assessment Report of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) provides a comprehensive assessment of the scientific literature relevant to climate change impacts, adaptation and vulnerability. The report recognizes the interactions of climate, ecosystems and biodiversity, and human societies, and integrates across the natural, ecological, social and economic sciences. It emphasizes how efforts in adaptation and in reducing greenhouse gas emissions can come together in a process called climate resilient development, which enables a liveable future for biodiversity and humankind. The IPCC is the leading body for assessing climate change science. IPCC reports are produced in comprehensive, objective and transparent ways, ensuring they reflect the full range of views in the scientific literature. Novel elements include focused topical assessments and an atlas presenting observed climate change impacts and future risks from global to regional scales. Available as Open Access on Cambridge Core.

Integrating human mobility through a rural livelihood lens into national adaptation and mitigation planning Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, UNU-EHS, 2025-03-03. Rural stakeholders are among the most affected by the adverse impacts of climate change due to their high dependence on resource-based livelihoods and exposure to climate hazards. When climate change undermines rural livelihoods, people may be compelled to move or may become trapped. National Adaptation Plans (NAPs) and Nationally

Determined Contributions NDCs are the plans countries prepare under the Paris Agreement to plan their climate change adaptation and mitigation efforts NAPs and NDCs often identify agriculture as one of the main economic sectors affected by climate change impacts where action is needed to either mitigate or adapt to climate change Some advances have also been made with regard to integrating mobility which includes migration displacement and planned relocation into NAPs and NDCs However the links between climate change rural livelihoods and mobility are not considered adequately This is a missed opportunity as the role of migration as adaptation especially in the context of rural livelihoods is increasingly recognized This toolkit aims to support stakeholders involved in the design and implementation of NAPs and NDCs to explicitly consider mobility from a rural livelihoods perspective This is important for i addressing the adverse drivers of mobility and immobility in rural areas ii ensuring that mobility is an act of choice where possible and iii promoting safe ordinary and regular movement of people including migration as adaptation
