National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Board on Testing and Assessment, Steering Committee for the Workshop on Higher Education Admissions, 1999-07-26 More than 8 million students enrolled in 4 year degree granting postsecondary institutions in the United States in 1996 The multifaceted system through which these students applied to and were selected by the approximately 2 240 institutions in which they enrolled is complex to say the least for students parents and advisers it is often stressful and sometimes bewildering This process raises important questions about the social goals that underlie the sorting of students and it has been the subject of considerable controversy. The role of standardized tests in this sorting process has been one of the principal flashpoints in discussions of its fairness. Tests have been cited as the chief evidence of unfairness in lawsuits over admissions decisions criticized as biased against minorities and women and blamed for the fierce competitiveness of the process. Yet tests have also been praised for their value in providing a common yardstick for comparing students from diverse schools with different grading standards. Myths and Tradeoffs identifies and corrects some persistent myths about standardized admissions tests and highlight some of the specific tradeoffs that decisions about the uses of tests entail. It presents conclusions and recommendations about the role of tests in college admissions and lays out several issues about which information would clearly help decision makers but about which the existing data are either insufficient or need synthesis and interpretation. This report will benefit a broad audience of college and university officials, state and other officials and lawmakers and others who are wrestling with decisions about admissions policies, definitions of merit, legal actions and other issues.

Unlock The Keys To Increase Chances Of Getting Into College With Low GPA. College admission has become a cutthroat process. Top schools seemingly become more and more difficult to gain entry to with the ever increasing applicant pool of the best and brightest. For the ambitious student it can seem like a jungle of insurmountable obstacles and questions. How much does GPA matter? Do I have to have a sport? The essay isn't that important, right? Community service isn't that big of a deal, right? All of these questions and more crop up when trying to navigate high school to advantageously position yourself for college entry to higher education. With no plan of action or guide it can be easy to lose your way when trying to prepare for the college application as well as during the process itself. Thankfully there is a guide to help you find your way to becoming the top choice applicant of your first choice school even without depending solely on GPA. In College Admission Hacks discover how to:

- Before The College Admission: Assess your assets and specialize your strengths. Use extra time for skill building to be the superior student. Obtain a positive reputation within the community for support.
- Override poor grades with these little known high school hacks. Force colleges to pay attention to you before the application process.
- During The College Application Process: Position yourself to what your school is looking for. Craft the best college essay with this added enhancement. Utilize the underutilized secret weapon: the college interview. Gain an unfair edge over your competitors with early application.
- Hack your way to a prestigious degree without spending the money and more for you to unlock. With this knowledge and advice you can be sure that you can set yourself up for entry into your school of choice. All it takes is determination, dedication and a little helpful knowledge to get you on the road to success.
