Abstract

1. The first step in the design process is to determine the design requirements for the building. This involves understanding the client's needs and the building's purpose.
2. The next step is to develop a conceptual design, which includes a rough sketch of the building's form and function.
3. The third step is to create a schematic design, which is a more detailed drawing of the building's layout and structure.
4. The fourth step is to develop a preliminary design, which includes a detailed drawing of the building's exterior and interior spaces.
5. The fifth step is to create a final design, which is a complete set of drawings and specifications for the building.
6. The sixth step is to obtain permits from the local government, which is required before construction can begin.
7. The seventh step is to begin construction, which involves hiring a contractor and building the structure.
8. The eighth step is to complete construction, which includes finishing the interior and exterior of the building.
9. The ninth step is to occupy the building, which is the final stage of the design process.
