March 2014 Grade12 Maths Paper Department:

Assessing Academic Literacy in a Multilingual Society Albert Weideman, John Read, Theo du Plessis, 2020-11-02 South African universities face major challenges in meeting the needs of their students in the area of academic language and literacy. The dominant medium of instruction in the universities is English and to a much lesser extent Afrikaans but only a minority of the national population are native speakers of these languages. Nine other languages can be media of instruction in schools which makes the transition to tertiary education difficult enough in itself for students from these schools. The focus of this book is on procedures for assessing the academic language and literacy levels and needs of students not in order to exclude students from higher education but rather to identify those who would benefit from further development of their ability in order to undertake their degree studies successfully. The volume also aims to bring the innovative solutions designed by South African educators to a wider international audience. U.S. Foreign Policy Steven W. Hook, 2015-12-18 The same aspects of American government and society that propelled the United States to global primacy have also hampered its orderly and successful conduct of foreign policy. This paradox challenges U.S. leaders to overcome threats to America's world power in the face of fast-moving global developments and political upheavals at home. The fully updated Fifth Edition of Steven W. Hook's U.S. Foreign Policy: The Paradox of World Power explores this paradox, identifies its key sources and manifestations, and considers its future implications as it asks whether U.S. foreign policymakers can manage these dynamics in a manner that preserves U.S. primacy. The Politics of Education in Developing Countries Sam Hickey, Naomi Hossain, 2019-02-21 Why have many developing countries that have succeeded in expanding access to education made such limited progress on improving learning outcomes? There is a growing recognition that the learning crisis constitutes a significant dimension of global inequality and also that educational outcomes in developing countries are shaped by political as well as socio-economic and other factors. The Politics of Education in Developing Countries focuses on how politics shapes the capacity and commitment of elites to tackle the learning crisis in six developing countries: Bangladesh, Cambodia, Ghana, Rwanda, South Africa, and Uganda. The problem of education quality is serious across the Global South. The Politics of Education in Developing Countries: From Schooling to Learning deploys a new conceptual framework, the domains of power approach, to show how the type of political settlement shapes the level of elite commitment and state capacity to improving learning outcomes. The domain of education is prone to being highly politicized as it offers an important source of both rents and legitimacy to political elites and can be central to paradigmatic elite ideas around nation building and modernity. Of particular importance is the relative strength of coalitions pushing for access as against those focused on issues of higher quality education. This book concludes with a discussion of entry points and strategies for thinking and working politically in relation to education quality reforms and critical commentaries. The Future of Work - The Development of Sustainable Workplaces Larisa Ivascu, Florin Dragan, 2025-12-03 The volume presents a comprehensive overview of how technology particularly generative artificial intelligence is profoundly transforming the labor market and the organization of professional activities The challenges of future jobs include automation and role transformation labor market polarization adaptability and continuous learning ethics and trust in technology reconfiguration of work processes generative artificial intelligence AI and job sustainability This volume highlights new perspectives and research on the future of work workforce and workplace These titles cover a diverse range of topics including STEM education workplace innovation and the role of artificial intelligence in productivity occupational safety and organizational sustainability Many of them focus on how AI and digital transformation are altering the professional environment while others examine the human and ethical implications of these changes Artificial intelligence technological advancements social intelligence new risks and other aspects of sustainability and system engineering are approaches that require research and can contribute to the development of sustainable workplaces and increased organizational competitiveness There are also works focused on education and sustainable practices highlighting the importance of adapting and collaborating between tradition innovation and social responsibility Overall the volume reflects the primary research directions on transforming the workplace in the era of artificial intelligence and global sustainability The future of work will not be without people but with people augmented by AI
