Polynesia thanks to a modern atmospheric particle transport code coupled with historical weather data open source information about radioactive debris mushroom clouds as well as data on the composition and particle sizes of the fallout and on new survey data about French knowledge of and attitudes towards nuclear weapons and nuclear energy They show notably that the first generation of French nuclear forces lacked technical credibility despite reliance on outside help Several French officials knew this as did France's allies and adversaries Moreover French strategic collaborations associated to nuclear programs extended to India and South Africa nuclear safety regulations changed fundamentally after the Cold War and approximately 110 000 people i e 90% of the French Polynesian population in the 1970s could have received doses that would qualify them for compensation according to French law The volume will be of interest to scholars and students of history politics international relations military history war studies conflict and global governance Most of the chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue in Cold War History A few chapters were first published in the Nonproliferation Review Diplomacy Statecraft and Science Global Security Geomechanical and Radiological Impact of Nuclear Tests at Mururoa and Fangataufa (French Polynesia) France.
