Mummy Madness One Mum S Experience Of Being A Mumpreneur:

Motivating Business Mums Debbie O'Connor, 2011-06-13 Motivating Mum www.motivatingmum.co.uk is a website that offers support and advice to mums who are running businesses and those who are thinking of starting up. In March 2011 Motivating Mum organised a charity mentoring festival called Mummy Mentoring Month in association with International Women's Day. Successful business women were encouraged to donate their time and their professional services and these services were sold to mums who were starting up with all proceeds going to charity. As part of this festival we asked business women in the UK and Australia to send in blogs which were published one a day during the month of March. I kept the scope very wide, blog about anything that would give support and advice to mums. The results were amazing, blogs written by professional coaches and very successful businesswomen and blogs written by people who are just starting out. Some are sharing their professional advice in various different disciplines, some are just sharing their personal journeys, successes and failures. Taken as a whole, I think these blogs provide a great resource of really good advice for mums in business and that is why I decided to put them together into an eBook that people can dip into for inspiration on an ongoing basis. The charity that we supported for Mummy Mentoring Month in the UK is Nema www.nemafoundation.org which helps women in rural Mozambique with aid, healthcare and education so that they can support their communities and families. So in order to continue the spirit of Mummy Mentoring Month and International Women's Day, I am donating 20% of my royalties from the sale of this book to Nema. I hope that you will be inspired and educated by the blogs in this book. If you are, please visit www.motivatingmum.co.uk or www.motivatingmum.com in Australia where the support, advice and inspiration is ongoing.

Young, Dumb, First-Time Mum Taylor Martin, 2019-07-29 After being falsely informed on the reality of motherhood with everyone she knew sharing smiling happy photos of their baby on Facebook Taylor felt a little stumped by why she wasn't taking so easily to this mum gig How did these professionals manage the risky trip of an aldi shop with a screaming toddler in tow Where were the mums wedging themselves against the bathroom door so they could pee in peace Why were all these other mummies glowing and smiling and coping so well Feeling completely alone in her woes Taylor decided there and then to share her own refreshing and unfiltered experiences on being a mum and why it wasn't always so great and so was born her blog www.justanothermanicmummy.co.uk where she began rambling about the daily woes of colic mum guilt and the dreaded terrible twos Realizing there were other like minded mothers also feeling the pressure of new motherhood inspired Taylor to take a step further and so was born the short novelette Young Dumb First Time Mum where she honestly accounts her experience over the first two years of her son being born from night feeding struggles to mental illness separation to loneliness she created a small platform to assure other parents that they're really not as alone as they think

Smokler, 2012-04-03 Sometimes I just let my children fall asleep in front of the TV In a culture that idealizes motherhood it's scary to confess that in your house being a mother is beautiful and dirty and joyful and frustrating all at once Admitting that it's not easy doesn't make you a bad mom at least it shouldn't If I can't survive my daughter as a toddler how the hell am I going to get through the teenage years When Jill Smokler was first home with her small children she thought her blog would be something to keep friends and family updated To her surprise she hit a chord in the hearts of mothers everywhere I end up doing my son's homework It's wrong but so much easier Total strangers were contributing their views on that strange reality called motherhood As other women shared their stories Jill realized she wasn't alone in her feelings of exhaustion and imperfection My eighteen month old still can't say Mommy but used the word shit in perfect context But she sensed her readers were still holding back so decided to start an anonymous confessional a place where real moms could leave their most honest thoughts without fearing condemnation I pretend to be happy but I cry every night in the shower The reactions were amazing some sad some pee in your pants funny some brutally honest But they were real not a commercial glamorization I clock out of motherhood at 8 P M and hide in the basement with my laptop and a beer If you're already a fan lock the bathroom door on your whining kids run a bubble bath and settle in If you've not encountered Scary Mommy before break out a glass of champagne as well because you'll be toasting your initiation into a select club I know why some animals eat their young In chapters that cover husbands The Biggest Baby of Them All to homework Didn't I Already Graduate

Confessions of a Scary Mommy combines all new essays from Jill with the best of the anonymous confessions Sometimes I wish my son was still little then I hear kids screaming at the store As Jill says We like to paint motherhood as picture perfect A newborn peacefully resting on his mother s chest A toddler taking tentative first steps into his mother s loving arms A mother fluffing her daughter s prom dress These moments are indeed miraculous and joyful they can also be few and far between Of course you adore your kids Of course you would lay down your life for them But be honest now Have you ever wondered what possessed you to sign up for the job of motherhood STOP DO NOT OPEN THIS BOOK UNTIL YOU RECITE THESE VOWS I shall remember that no mother is perfect and my children will thrive because and sometimes even in spite of me I shall not preach to a fellow mother who has not asked my opinion It s none of my damn business I shall maintain a sense of humor about all things motherhood
