Cognition, Language and Aging Heather Harris Wright, 2016-03-16 Age related changes in cognitive and language functions have been extensively researched over the past half century. The older adult represents a unique population for studying cognition and language because of the many challenges that are presented with investigating this population including individual differences in education, life experiences, health issues, social identity as well as gender. The purpose of this book is to provide an advanced text that considers these unique challenges and assembles in one source current information regarding a language in the aging population and b current theories accounting for age related changes in language function. A thoughtful and comprehensive review of current research spanning different disciplines that study aging will achieve this purpose. Such disciplines include linguistics, psychology, sociolinguistics, neurosciences, cognitive sciences and communication sciences. As of January 2019, this e-book is freely available thanks to the support of libraries working with Knowledge Unlatched.

Textbook of Psychiatry for Intellectual Disability and Autism Spectrum Disorder Marco O. Bertelli, Shoumitro (Shoumi) Deb, Kerim Munir, Angela Hassiotis, Luis Salvador-Carulla, 2022-05-11 This textbook provides a state of the art of the knowledge on the prevalence, risk and etiological factors, clinical features, assessment procedures and tools, diagnostic criteria, treatment and prognosis of the psychiatric disorders encountered in people with intellectual disability (ID) and low functioning autism spectrum disorder (ASD). ID and ASD represent two meta-syndromic groups of several different conditions, each with particular cognitive and communication features. People with ID/ASD display an increased prevalence of a variety of psychiatric disorders including psychotic disorders, mood disorders, anxiety and stress related disorders, somatoform disorders and obsessive compulsive disorder as well as behavioral syndromes, personality disorders and disorders due to psychoactive substance use. This book will enable readers to understand the specificities of psychiatric disorders in the context of ID/ASD. It explains clearly how diagnostic criteria and assessment procedures for psychiatric disorders that were created for the general population have to be modified for use with ID/ASD. Above all, it will enable clinicians to overcome difficulties in diagnosis and to deliver more effective care that meets the particular needs of patients with ID/ASD.

Neuroscience of Human Attachment Anna Buchheim, Carol George, Harald Gündel, Roberto Viviani, 2017-08-15 Attachment is a biologically emotion regulation based system guiding cognitive and emotional processes with respect to intimate and significant relationships. Secure relationships promote infants' exploration of the world and expand their mastery of the environment. Adverse attachment experiences like maltreatment, loss and separation have long been known to have enduring unfavorable effects on human mental health. Research on the neurobiological basis of attachment started with animal studies focusing on emotional deprivation and its behavioral, molecular and endocrine consequences. The present book presents an interdisciplinary synthesis of existing knowledge and new perspectives on the human neuroscience of attachment showing the tremendous development of this field The following chapters include innovative studies that are representative of the broad spectrum of current approaches These involve both differing neurobiological types of substrates using measures like fMRI EEG psychophysiology endocrine parameters and genetic polymorphisms as well as psychometric approaches to classify attachment patterns in individuals The findings we have acquired in the meanwhile on the neural substrates of attachment in healthy subjects lay the foundation of studies with clinical groups The final section of the book addresses evidence on changes in the functioning of these neural substrates in psychopathology
