Listening To Our Elders Working And Writing For Change:

Listening to Our Elders Samantha Blackmon, Cristina Kirklighter, Steve Parks, 2011-11-01 In 2011 the National Council of Teachers of English NCTE turned one hundred years old But our profession is endlessly beginning constantly transforming itself and its purpose as new voices and identities claim their rights in our classrooms and in our country The recognition of such claims however does not occur without a struggle without collective work Listening to our Elders attempts to capture the history of those collective moments where teachers across grade levels and institutions of higher education organized to insure that the voices heritages and traditions of their students and colleagues were recognized within our professional organizations as a vital part of our classrooms and our discipline In doing so Listening to Our Elders demonstrates this recognition was not always easily given Instead whether the issue was race sexuality class or disability committed activist organizations have often had to push against the existing limits of our field and its organizations to insure a broader sense of common responsibility and humanity was recognized Listening to Our Elders features interviews with Malea Powell Native American Caucus Joyce Rain Anderson Native American Caucus Jeffery Paul Chan Asian American James Hill Black Caucus James Dolmage Committee for Disability Issue in College Composition Geneva Smitherman Language Policy Committee Carlota C rdenas de Dwyer Latino a Caucus Victor Villanueva Latino a Caucus Louise Dunlap Progressive Caucus Karen Hollis Progressive Caucus Louie Crew Queer Caucus William Thelin Working Class Culture and Pedagogy SIG Bill Macauley Working Class Culture and Pedagogy SIG

Sano-Franchini, Terese Guinsatao Monberg, 2017-02-18 Documents how Asian American teacher scholars have emerged within and contributed to a number of areas in rhetoric and composition as well as the National Council of Teachers of English and the Conference on College Composition and Communication in diverse and substantial ways from the 1960s to contemporary times

Class Politics Stephen Parks, 2013-03-27 Class Politics The Movement for the Students Right to Their Own Language 2e is a response to histories of Composition Studies that focused on scholarly articles and university programs as the generative source for the field Such histories particularly in the 1980s and 1990s divorced the field from activist politics washing out such work in the name of disciplinary identity Class Politics shows the importance of political mass movements in the formation of Composition Studies particularly Civil Rights and Black Power Class Politics also critiques how the field appropriates these movements The book traces a pathway from social movement to progressive academic groups to their work in professional organizations to the formation of the Students Right to Their Own Language Stephen Parks then shows how the SRTOL was attacked and politically neutralized by conservative forces in the 1980s and 1990s arguing for a return to politics to reanimate its importance and the importance of politics in the field Stephen Parks restores politics to the history of Composition Studies

Viva Nuestro Caucus Romeo García, Iris Ruiz, 2019-10-13 Viva Nuestro Caucus celebrates the history of the Latinx Caucus of the National Council of Teachers of English and of the College Composition and Communication Conference since its inception in 1968 as the Chicano Teachers of English The Caucus emerged because of a lack of representation and support and today maintains its vision and agenda of advocating for Latino peoples The impetus for Viva Nuestro Caucus began both from a lack of recognition amongst NCTE and CCCC and an acknowledgment that no written history exists of the Caucus Its editors provide a partial history of the agendas activities and achievements of the Caucus from its formation to the present set against the backdrop of changing times It includes interviews with founding and current Caucus members an annotated Caucus archive and a working bibliography of publications by Caucus members Other People's English Vershawn Ashanti Young, Rusty Barrett, 2018-11-21 With a new Foreword by April Baker Bell and a new Preface by Vershawn Ashanti Young and Y Shanda Young Rivera Other People's English Code Meshing Code Switching and African American Literacy presents an empirically grounded argument for a new approach to teaching writing to diverse students in the English language arts classroom Responding to advocates of the code switching approach four uniquely qualified authors make the case for code meshing allowing students to use standard English African American English and other Englishes in formal academic writing and classroom discussions This practical resource translates theory into a concrete road map for pre and inservice teachers who wish to use code meshing in the classroom to extend students abilities as writers and thinkers and to foster inclusiveness and creativity The text provides activities and examples from middle and high school as well as college and addresses the question of how to advocate for code meshing with skeptical administrators parents and students Other People's English provides a rationale for the social and educational value of code meshing including answers to frequently asked questions about language variation It also includes teaching tips and action plans for professional development workshops that address cultural prejudices

Becoming International Sadie Shorr-Parks, 2018-09-16 Becoming International Musings on Studying Abroad in America This collection of flash nonfiction chronicles the experiences of international students as they leave home cross borders and begin their studies in the United States Sometimes humorous often profound their writings illustrate the peculiar process of becoming international All of the authors in this book are international students This collection aims to not only illuminate their experiences but also celebrate the distinct beauty of writing produced by students learning a second language A timely mediation on arriving in America Becoming International Musings on Studying Abroad in America is a perfect companion for those planning to study abroad or anyone interested in creating international spaces on college campuses In exploring the notion of home the authors in this collection evoke familiar themes of homesickness childhood memories and the exciting yet daunting prospect of change Additionally they inform and connect us because not in spite of the unfamiliarities in their experiences from our own And where there are disparities they have created sites for cross cultural learning compassion and acknowledgment of our own privileges Their writing demonstrates that minority students finding themselves in the contact zone of their home and new host cultures can wield their stories to cope with change and negotiate their self identities in generative community building ways Charissa Che University of Utah Equality and Justice Michael Chehade, 2020-01-07 With this book Twiza has succeeded in causing a crack in the fortress built by certain obsolete educational practices that tend more often than not to buckle from the inside a community of practice that is eager and ready to develop collaborative outreach programmes These extra curricular activities constitute the soft skills universities continue to ignore Through constant dialogue across borders of all sorts Twiza will undoubtedly broaden the crack until all voices are heard to let a genuine civil society emerge aware of its individual and collective engagement towards human rights The envisaged result a society more prone to commitment towards equity and justice This is not dreamland It is the sheer volume of the youth potential Dr Mohamed MILIANI Dip TEFL M Ed PhD University of Oran Algeria An ambitious yet fully realized project that truly embarks on transnational knowledge making civil engagement and cross cultural dialogue through writing The voices in this book demonstrate that undergraduate students have the ability to creatively enact social justice to develop a better world They offer a deep hope for an improved global society Equality and Justice is a must read for composition teachers who seek to engage their students in real world matters and a must read for students who seek a vision for a different world Dr Rebecca Dingo University of Massachusetts Dreams and Nightmares Liliana Velásquez, 2017-04-14 At fourteen Liliana Velásquez walked out of her village in Guatemala and headed for the U S border alone On her two thousand mile voyage she was robbed by narcos rode the boxcars of La Bestia and encountered death in the Sonoran Desert

The Oxford Handbook of Indigenous American Literature James Howard Cox, Daniel Heath Justice, 2014 Over the course of the last twenty years Native American and Indigenous American literary studies has experienced a dramatic shift from a critical focus on identity and authenticity to the intellectual cultural political historical and tribal nation contexts from which these Indigenous literatures emerge The Oxford Handbook of Indigenous American Literature reflects on these changes and provides a complete overview of the current state of the field The Handbook's forty three essays organized into four sections cover oral traditions poetry drama non fiction fiction and other forms of Indigenous American writing from the seventeenth through the twenty first century Part I attends to literary histories across a range of communities providing for example analyses of Inuit Chicana o Anishinaabe and M tis literary practices Part II draws on earlier disciplinary and historical contexts to focus on specific genres as authors discuss Indigenous non fiction emergent trans Indigenous autobiography Mexicanoh and Spanish poetry Native drama in the U S and Canada and even a new Indigenous children's literature canon The third section delves into contemporary modes of critical inquiry to expound on politics of place comparative Indigenism trans Indigenism Native rhetoric and the power of Indigenous writing to communities of readers A final section thoroughly explores the geographical breadth and expanded definition of Indigenous American through detailed accounts of literature from Indian Territory the Red Atlantic the far North Yucatán Amerika Samoa and Francophone Quebec Together the volume is the most comprehensive and expansive critical handbook of Indigenous American literatures
