Digital Stimulation Mimi Marinucci, 2024-09-05 Digital Stimulation explores the subject of intimacy including romantic and sexual intimacy between human and nonhuman entities particularly technological entities. As relationships between humans and machines become increasingly prevalent it is important to address the potential for such relationships to reflect to reinforce or to reinvent existing hierarchies. The distinction between man and machine like the distinction between man and beast between man and brute between man and nature between man and woman and so on is an expression of the anthropocentrism and androcentrism permeating western ideas of self and other. Concerns about the representation or misrepresentation and treatment or mistreatment of machines are of consequence for other human and nonhuman others as well and this book details many of the ways in which depictions of machines especially robots mirror ideas and attitudes about various human and nonhuman others. This book also addresses the ongoing development of machines designed explicitly for intimate engagement with humans such as sex robots. As they become more and more lifelike it becomes progressively more urgent to cultivate compassion toward such machines. Motion Picture Herald, 1923

Monitoring the Movies Jennifer Fronc, 2017-11-15 As movies took the country by storm in the early twentieth century Americans argued fiercely about whether municipal or state authorities should step in to control what people could watch when they went to movie theaters which seemed to be springing up on every corner. Many who opposed the governmental regulation of film conceded that some entity boards populated by trusted civic leaders for example needed to safeguard the public good. The National Board of Review of Motion Pictures NB a civic group founded in New York City in 1909 emerged as a national cultural chaperon well suited to protect this emerging form of expression from state incursions. Using the National Board's extensive files Monitoring the Movies offers the first full length study of the NB and its campaign against motion picture censorship. Jennifer Fronc traces the NB's Progressive era founding in New York its evolving set of standards for directors producers municipal officers and citizens its city plan which called on citizens to report screenings of condemned movies to local officials and the spread of the NB's influence into the urban South. Ultimately Monitoring the Movies shows how Americans grappled with the issues that arose alongside the powerful new medium of film the extent of the right to produce and consume images and the proper scope of government control over what citizens can see and show. TV Guide, 2004
