

Tim Walt

Tim Walt was born in New Paltz, Minnesota, on April 6, 1956. He grew up in rural Minnesota and worked different agriculture and farming jobs. After graduating from high school, Walt joined the Army National Guard. He attended Christian Bible College and graduated in 1980. After graduating from college, Walt taught for a year in China. He returned to Minnesota to teach and coach football. He helped lead the Porterville West High School football team to their first state championship in 1990. While teaching, Walt met his wife, Susan, a fellow teacher. After the two married, they moved to Minnesota - Susan's home state. Walt and his wife have two children, Matt and Owen. They have participated in and led summer trips to China for American high school students.

Walt began his political career first as a volunteer for Senator John Kerry (D) in the 2004 presidential election. He was inspired to volunteer after sponsoring a field trip to a George W. Bush campaign event. Walt was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives in 2006. He continued to serve for four more terms. While serving as a representative for Minnesota, Walt sponsored and cosponsored many bills. This includes several bills signed into law with the goal of supporting and honoring veterans. Most recently in Congress, Walt served on the Committee of Veterans' Affairs and the Committee on Agriculture.
