NATO Strategy and Out-Of-Area Operations School of Advanced Military Studies, 2014-10-25 This book examines the viability of recent NATO out of area operations specifically in Kosovo and Afghanistan It illustrates that the complex decision making bureaucracy of NATO can be a detriment to the capabilities of the alliance and limits the strategic options available to the organization By studying strategy development after the end of the Cold War and leading up to the commitment of NATO to the ISAF it becomes clear that these structures and processes do not easily facilitate the formation of a coherent strategy that meets alliance objectives During times of conflict especially those well outside of alliance boundaries more flexible and adaptable institutional structures are necessary for effective war prosecution Through this approach it becomes apparent that the anticipated new strategic concept must once again adapt the alliance in order to remain relevant in the contemporary security environment

NATO's New Strategic Concept. A Comprehensive Assessment Sten Rynning, 2011 Germany, NATO's Out-of-area Operations, and the CSDP Kent S. Oglesby, 2014 Germany stands as a pivotal country within the NATO alliance it is an economic superpower and occupies a central geographic and political position in Europe Germany's defense policy and its approach to alliance commitments will have a significant impact on the success or failure of NATO strategy However its participation in post Cold War NATO combat operations has varied from full commitment to outright abstention This paper will explore the reasons behind Germany's inconsistent support of NATO combat missions in the Balkans Bosnia Herzegovina and Kosovo Afghanistan and Libya Given the parallel development of a security framework within the European Union it will also examine the EU's Common Security and Defense Policy and evaluate its viability as an alternative to NATO as Germany's primary military alliance

The Future of NATO's Tactical Air Doctrine Linda E. Torrens, 1997 This study analyzes the need for changes to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization NATO airpower doctrine to reflect current post cold war realities NATO air doctrine does not yet reflect the actuality of today s operations nor does it anticipate the probable future employment of NATO s airpower Out of area operations and Partnership for Peace participation in NATO operations will have profound effects on combined doctrine training organizational structures exercises and employment of forces NATO s tactical doctrine revision process served the alliance well during the cold war But today the international environment has drastically changed Both the nature of the threat and the use of NATO airpower during conflict have changed The current doctrinal revision process has proved too slow and cumbersome to provide adequate direction for air strategists during ongoing operations There are many new doctrinal areas that must be thoroughly addressed so that NATO can chart a course for the future that in the end provides the best most effective mix of forces

Strategic Digest , 2004 Europe After an American Withdrawal Jane M. O. Sharp, 1990 This book clarifies the debate about alliance burden sharing and the U S commitment to Europe by exploring the political economic and military implications of a hypothetical American withdrawal The contributors first examine the economic costs and benefits of U S installations in Europe as perceived in the U S as well as in the host nations They then analyze the different kinds of military gaps that a withdrawal would generate in the northern central and southern regions as well as the gaps in command control communications and intelligence capabilities Finally the essays examine the problems Western Europe would face in trying to cope with an American withdrawal and how the U S could fulfill its global commitments without its European bases

NATO and Forward Defense ,2005 This thesis examines the NATO s adaptation of a new security focus towards forward defense in the 21st Century Until the late 1990 s the strategic focus of NATO was on mutual defense based on a collective response guaranteed by Article 5 of the Washington Treaty Since the adoption of NATO s Strategic Concept 1999 the Alliance has shifted their strategic focus toward a forward defense strategy As NATO assumed more operational responsibilities and deployed forces out of area in non Article 5 missions the disparity of military capabilities operational challenges and cultural and institutional differences within the Alliance gave rise to the question Is NATO the most effective instrument with which to execute a strategy of forward defense A review of the expeditionary campaigns in the Balkans Afghanistan and Iraq determines the efficiency of the Alliance as an expeditionary security actor The modernization of European military capabilities are described in relation to NATO and how these programs either complement or duplicate existing structures and capabilities Furthermore inherent structural flaws in NATO s composition are examined as well as cultural and ideological differences within the Alliance and their effects on out of area operations Finally challenges and issues that may confront NATO in the future during the execution of their forward defense strategy are discussed
