government which believes the Western development aid model has failed is looking for new forms of aid and development in Africa China's economic success can partly be ascribed to the huge availability of cheap labour which is primarily employed in export oriented industries China is looking for the required raw materials in Africa and for new marketplaces Investments are being made on a large scale in Africa by Chinese state controlled firms and private companies particularly in the oil producing countries Angola Nigeria and Sudan and countries rich in minerals Zambia Third the trade policy China is conducting is analysed in China and compared with that of Europe and the United States In case studies the specific situation in several African countries is examined In Zambia the mining industry construction and agriculture are described One case study of Sudan deals with the political presence of China in Sudan and the extent to which Chinese arms suppliers contributed to the current crisis in Darfur The possibility of Chinese diplomacy offering a solution in that conflict is discussed The conclusion considers whether social responsibility can be expected of the Chinese government and companies and if this is desirable and to what extent the Chinese model in Africa can act as an example or not for the West Publisher's description which criteria can processes of the kind encountered in Addis Ababa be evaluated And how can all of this be steered Aiming to identify sustainable strategies rather than upholding an a priori vision of an ideal city the publication acknowledges the heterogeneous conditions of urban territories The book highlights questions of method and procedure that can be transferred to other cities of change This revised edition covers recent developments such as the increasing influence of China in African countries or the chances of high density low rise developments The Impact of Urbanization on Environment in Africa. The Case of Yeka Sub City, Addis Ababa Fitsum Elias Awoke, 2020-08-31 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2019 in the subject Geography Earth Science Physical Geography Geomorphology Environmental Studies grade A Ethiopian Civil Service University College of Urban Development and Engineering course Research language English abstract The general objective of this senior essay is to assess the impact that urbanization has brought to the environment in Yeka sub city The research is descriptive in its very nature Besides both quantitative and qualitative research approach is used Simple random sampling technique particularly lottery method is used to select samples from the total population Both primary and secondary data sources have been employed and questionnaire interview and observation are employed to collect the required data Furthermore quantitative i e descriptive statistics specially frequency distribution and percentage and qualitative i e verbal analysis or narration data analysis methods have been launched to analyze the collected data Data are mainly presented in tabular pictorial and textual form Continuous population growth in Yeka sub city resulted in the encroachment of forest land mostly through informal way and this resulted in the minimization of forest cover and the alteration of land use from natural forest into human made residential and other built up areas on a continuous manner Besides the formal settlement made by the legal allotment of land the informal settlement is very high and even difficult to control This indicates the high magnitude of urbanization in the sub city The main causes for the continuous urban population growth or urbanization are influx of people into the city of Addis Ababa ever increasing natural birth rate and reduced mortality rate The impact that urbanization has on the environment encompass deforestation land slide and soil degradation excessive waste generation and water and land pollution and air pollution Protecting agricultural and forest land as well as public open spaces from human settlement containing the growth of the sub city within limited square with the help of policy instrument that earmark regulatory environment restrict the geographic or spatial growth of the city facilitate the management of urban growth and protect preserve public open spaces and forest lands reducing the influx of people through the creation of equal development opportunities for all rural and urban centers and implementing family planning is compulsory and controlling informal settlement with a very strict regulatory environment is decisively needed Urban Growth in Ethiopia, 1887-1974 Getahun Benti, 2016 From the foundation of Finfinnee to the Italian occupation c 1887 1936 The growth of towns during the Italian occupation 1936 1941 New beginnings new challenges Urban growth 1941 1974 The demographics of Ethiopian towns and urban settlement patterns 1887 1974 Conclusion Big process little transformation Cities and agricultural transformation in Africa Vandercasteelen, Joachim, Tamru, Seneshaw, Minten, Bart, Swinnen, Johan, 2016-07-01 Due to the rapid growth of cities in Africa many more farmers are now living in rural hinterlands in relatively close proximity to cities where many provide food to urban residents However empirical evidence on how urbanization affects these farmers is scarce To fill this gap this paper explores the relationship between proximity to a city and the production behavior of rural staple crop producers In particular we analyze data from teff producing farmers in major producing areas around Addis Ababa the Ethiopian capital We find that farmers located closer to Addis Ababa face higher wages and land rental prices and because they receive higher teff prices they have better incentives to intensify production Moreover we observe that modern input use land and labor productivity and profitability in teff production improve with urban proximity This urban proximity has a strong and significant effect on these aspects of teff production possibly related to the use of more formal factor markets lower transaction costs in crop production and marketing and better access to information In contrast we do not find a strong and positive relationship between rural population density increases and agricultural transformation increased population density seems to lead to immiserizing effects in these settings Our results show that urban proximity should be considered as an important determinant of the process of agricultural intensification and transformation in developing countries rising rents and house prices and lack of open space Foregrounding the experience of everyday citizens of the city this book aids our understanding of the nature of rapidly growing cities and outlines what needs to be done so that the city meets the needs of the people A unique contribution to the literature on cities of the developing world this book will be of interest to students and scholars of Urban Studies Planning Development Studies and African Studies Cities of Change - Addis Ababa Marc Angélil, Dirk Hebel, 2016-05-23 Aiming to identify sustainable strategies rather than upholding an a priori vision of an ideal city the publication acknowledges the heterogeneous conditions of urban territories This revised edition highlights questions of method and procedure that can be transferred to other cities of change and covers recent developments such as the increasing influence of China in African countries or the chances of high density low rise developments Urban Infrastructure Research Alok Tiwari, 2016-03-03 This book reviews contemporary research on urban infrastructure in 76 Ethiopian cities It examines urban infrastructure issues in these cities and covers a wide range of topics from sustainability and smart cities to research methods employed by urban infrastructure investigators with regard to Ethiopian cities Research on urban infrastructure legitimacies and modalities has established its value worldwide in recent years though it is still fairly young in the Ethiopian context The first chapter outlines ongoing issues of debate concerning urban infrastructures including but not limited to discourses on sustainability smart cities innovative financing methods and potential partnerships Urban infrastructure issues in Ethiopian cities are examined in the second chapter while the third chapter presents a review of the most relevant literature for researchers Findings show that the citations in the research reports are mainly from the materials available over the internet including WHO UN Habitat and unpublished local materials The fourth chapter identifies patterns in the findings and recommendations of the research reports discussed The results reveal that there is a wider gap between supply and demand with regard to urban infrastructure in Ethiopian cities a situation that is further aggravated because of the growing urban population and already existing backlogs The fifth chapter reviews the essential methods employed by urban infrastructure investigators in Ethiopian cities In this regard the cross sectional study method with the use of survey method has been broadly adopted among investigators Lastly the book presents a summary and recommendations It was observed that the urban infrastructure boom in Ethiopia is primarily concentrated in the key cities and the current pattern of urban infrastructure provision does not incorporate the notion of sustainability Hence the book calls for setting the agenda of future research on urban infrastructure and services in Ethiopian cities together with the universities private sector and government who should ideally collaborate to produce the knowledge needed to improve quality of life welfare productivity and economic growth Structural Transformation in Ethiopia Fantu Cheru, 2014
