Race and Ethnicity in English Language Teaching Christopher Joseph Jenks, 2017-08-14 This book examines racism and racialized discourses in the ELT profession in South Korea The book is informed by a number of different critical approaches to race and discourse and the discussions contained in the chapters offer one way of exploring how the ELT profession can be understood from such perspectives Observations made are based on the understanding that racism should not be viewed as individual acts of discrimination but rather as a system of social structures While the book is principally concerned with language teaching and learning in South Korea the findings are situated in a wider discussion of race and ethnicity in the global ELT profession The book makes the following argument White normativity is an ideological commitment and a form of racialized discourse that comes from the social actions of those involved in the ELT profession this normative model or ideal standard constructs a system of racial discrimination that is founded on White privilege saviorism and neoliberalism Drawing on a wide range of data sources this book is a must read for anyone interested in critically examining ELT

English in China Songqing Li,2022-06-14 English related linguistic creativity and language commodification are a constant topic of interest and analysis for scholars This volume is intended to initiate a dialogue between these two domains of inquiry that have been abundantly addressed but rarely documented together or in relation to one another English as used in mainland China is presented as a case study where it remains rather unclear the extent to which the language is actually used in people s lives outside the domain of education The volume enriches existing empirical studies by exploring the creative and innovative uses of English in people s lives and its commodification at different language centred economic spaces within China while also providing an update of our understanding of the sociolinguistic situation of English in China a country undergoing rapid socio economic transformation English in China is the first attempt to discuss the possible relationship intersection and tension between two seemingly inseparable research topics The book is an important resource for students and scholars in the fields of Applied Linguistics Bilingualism Sociolinguistics Translation and Contemporary Chinese Studies

The British National Bibliography Arthur

James Wells, 2009      The Global-Local Interface and Hybridity Rani Rubdy, Lubna Alsagoff, 2013-12-02 The chapters in this volume seek to bring hybrid language practices to the center of discussions about English as a global language. They demonstrate how local linguistic resources and practices are involved in the refashioning of identities in a variety of cross cultural and geographical contexts and illustrate hybridity as an enactment of resistance and creativity. Drawing on a variety of disciplines and ideological perspectives, the authors use contexts as diverse as social media, Bollywood films, workplaces and kindergartens to explore the ways in which English has become a part of localities and social relations in ways that are of significant sociolinguistic interest in understanding the dynamics of mobile cultures and transcultural flows.      Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts, 2009      Directory of Online Data Bases, 1988      Abstracts of the Annual Meeting American Anthropological Association, 2001      LASIE, 2000      Canada's Cultural Industries Paul Audley, 1983 From the back cover: Books, television, records, media such as these provide a country with its entertainment information, opinion and analysis, a major part of its culture. But the import of culture from more powerful countries has always meant disadvantages for Canada's cultural industries, whose smaller market dictates higher costs. As these industries suffer economically, so does Canadian culture. However, by both their buying habits and responses to polls, Canadians have shown that they support Canadian content. Despite this fact, an annual cultural deficit of 750 million and an obvious threat to Canadian autonomy, responses from government have been fitful and sometimes even counterproductive. For both English and French Canada, Paul Audley provides a wealth of information on the state of the cultural industries: newspapers, magazines, books, recording, radio, television and film. Audley pays particular attention to problems of Canadian content and control and how government could formulate new policies to strengthen these vital industries.      Documentation Abstracts, 1988      New Art Examiner, 1999 The independent voice of the visual arts.
