Enhancing Internal Trip Capture Estimation for Mixed-use Developments Brian S. Bochner, Kevin G. Hooper, Benjamin R. Sperry, Robert T. Dunphy, 2011 TRB's National Cooperative Highway Research Program NCHRP Report 684 Enhancing Internal Trip Capture Estimation for Mixed Use Developments explores an improved methodology to estimate how many internal trips will be generated in mixed use developments trips for which both the origin and destination are within the development The methodology estimates morning and afternoon peak period trips to and from six specific land use categories office retail restaurant residential cinema and hotel The research team analyzed existing data from prior surveys and collected new data at three mixed use development sites The resulting methodology is incorporated into a spreadsheet model which is available online for download Trip Generation: User's guide, 2008 Urban Transportation Planning in the United States Edward Weiner, 2016-09-16 In this new fifth edition there is a strong focus on the increasing concern over infrastructure resilience from the threat of serious storms human activity and population growth The new edition also looks technologies that urban transportation planners are increasingly focused on such as vehicle to vehicle communications and driver less cars which have the potential to radically improve transportation This book also investigates the effects of transportation on the health of travelers and the general public and the ways in which these concerns have become additional factors in the transportation and infrastructure planning and policy process The development of U S urban transportation policy over the past half century illustrates the changing relationships among federal state and local governments This comprehensive text examines the evolution of urban transportation planning from early developments in highway planning in the 1930s to today's concerns over sustainable development security and pollution control Highlighting major national events the book examines the influence of legislation regulations conferences federal programs and advances in planning procedures and technology The volume provides in depth coverage of the most significant event in transportation planning the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1962 which created a federal mandate for a comprehensive urban transportation planning process carried out cooperatively by states and local governments with federal funding Claiming that urban transportation planning is more sophisticated costly and complex than its highway and transit planning predecessors the book demonstrates how urban transportation planning evolved in response to changes in such factors as the environment energy development patterns intergovernmental coordination and federal transit programs This new edition includes analyses of the growing threats to infrastructure new projects in infrastructure resilience the promise of new technologies to improve urban transportation and the recent shifts in U S transportation policy This book will be of interest to researchers and practitioners in transportation legislation and policy eco justice and regional and urban planning California

Givechi,2012 Currently the trip generation rates and equations contained in the Institute of Transportation Engineers ITE Trip Generation Manual 8th Edition are based on the information collected at single use free standing sites and cannot be directly applied to multi use developments Application of this data for multi use development sites requires use of an adjustment factor called internal capture rate which is expressed as a percent reduction to the trips generated by individual land uses These reductions are applied externally to the site at the entrances adjacent intersections and roadways They are distinct and separate from pass by and diverted link trips and are applied before pass by and diverted link trip reductions are applied While the trip generation rates for individual uses on a multi use development site may be the same or similar to what they are for free standing sites there is potential for interaction between among those uses within the site particularly where the trip can be made by walking As a result the total generation of vehicle trips entering and exiting the multi use site may be reduced from simply a sum of the individual discrete trips generated by each land use Because the development of mixed use or multi use sites is increasingly popular ITE wishes to increase the database on multi use developments in order to provide internal capture data for a broader range of land uses ITE would appreciate additional data from analyses of such developments The goal of this research project is to establish a local trip generation rate model for multi use developments in state of Kansas which can potentially be submitted to the ITE headquarter for inclusion in the national database as well The primary objectives were to identify several appropriate multi use development sites in the state and document vehicular trip data generated by each site in order to develop a trip generation model that can be used to better estimate trip numbers generated by such sites A total of three sites were selected and studied for this project including Mission Farms and Park Place developments both in Leawood Kansas and Metcalf95 Complex in Overland Park Kansas Sunridge Properties, Rancho Cordova ,2010 Fort George G. Richard Kuzmyak,2012 Land Use and Traffic Congestion SPR 618 is an investigation into the links among land use travel behavior and traffic congestion Researchers focused on four transportation corridors in the Phoenix area three older neighborhoods with relatively mixed higher density land use and one suburban area with lower density but high traffic volumes The analysis suggested that the higher density corridors exhibited less congestion due to the greater mix of uses shorter trip lengths more travel by transit and nonmotorized modes and the presence of a secondary
