CHAPTER 3: NATURE, NURTURE, & HUMAN DIVERSITY

CHAPTER 3: NATURE, NURTURE, AND HUMAN DIVERSITY

Chapter 3: Lecture Notes

- ❖ Evolutionary psychology: studies how natural selection favored behavioral tendencies that contributed to the survival and spread of one's genes (survival of the fittest)
- ❖ Behavior genetics: on our differences .... on our differences
  - By using twin, adoption, and temperament studies, they assess the heritability of various traits and disorders.
  - We are products of interactions between our genetic predispositions and our surrounding environments.
- ❖ Nurture begins in the womb as embryos receive differing nutrition and varying levels of exposure to toxic agents.
- ❖ Genes: Our Biological Blueprint
  - Egg & sperm unite, the 23 chromosomes from the egg pair with 23 chromosomes from the sperm.
  - Each chromosome is composed of a coiled chain of a molecule called DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid).
  - DNA is in turn composed of thousands of genes, the biochemical units of heredity.
  - Genes provide the blueprint for protein molecules, the building blocks of our physical and behavioral development.
  - Our genes are composed of biochemical letters called nucleotides.
  - Human genome researchers have discovered the common sequence of the 3.1 billion letters within our DNA. It is that shared genetic profile that makes us human.
- ➦ Evolutionary Psychology: Maximizing Fitness
  - Evolutionary psychologists: study how natural selection extended over many years and, feeding off new gene combinations and mutations, has shaped our universal behavioral tendencies.
  - In the beginning, some individuals engaged in behaviors that enabled them to survive, reproduce, and send their genes into the future. The genes of those who made less fortunate choices were lost from the human gene pool.
  - Nature predisposes us, to make choices that worked for our ancestors.
- ➦ Gender differences in sexual behavior
  - largest reported gender difference is women's greater disapproval of and lesser willingness to engage in casual, uncommitted sex.
  - Men also have a lower threshold for perceiving warm responses as a sexual come-on. The unfortunate response can range from sexual harassment to date rape.
  - Evolutionary psychologists explain these differences by noting that compared with eggs, sperm are cheap.
  - Behavior Genetics: Predicting Individual Differences
  - Twin and adoption studies: help us differentiate hereditary and environmental influences on human traits.
    - Comparisons of identical twins, who are genetic clones, and fraternal twins, who develop from separate eggs, help behavior geneticists tease apart the effects of heredity and environment.
    - Research findings show that identical twins are much more similar than fraternal twins in abilities, personality traits, and even interests. Genes matter.
