The Disorder of Mathematics Education Hauke Straehler-Pohl, Nina Bohlmann, Alexandre Pais, 2016-08-23 Research within a socio political paradigm or turn has been gradually recognized and institutionalized as an important part of mathematics education This book focuses on the neglected problems tensions and contradictions evoked by this process The authors do this by challenging current regimes of truth about mathematics education by identifying how recent technological developments challenge or suspend contemporary conceptions of mathematics education by critiquing the ideological entanglement of mathematics its education and schooling with capitalism by self reflective analyses of researchers impacts on shaping what is and can be perceived as the practice of mathematics education research and by confronting main stream mathematics education with socio political contexts that are usually neglected In this way mathematical rationality becomes contextualized within contemporary society where it reproduces itself through technologies social practices media and other spheres of social life

Must Inclusion be Special? Jonathan Rix, 2015-06-05 Must Inclusion be Special examines the discord between special and inclusive education and why this discord can only be resolved when wider inequalities within mainstream education are confronted It calls for a shift in our approach to provision from seeing it as a conglomeration of individualised needs to identifying it as a conglomeration of collective needs The author examines the political medical and cultural tendency of current times to focus upon the individual and contrasts this with the necessity to focus on context This book distinguishes the theoretical perspectives that are often associated with special or inclusive education and the broad range of interests which depend upon their ongoing development This examination leads to a problematisation of mainstream education provision our understanding of why social inequities emerge and how additional support can overcome these inequities Further chapters explore the underlying challenges which emerge from our use and understanding of the notions of special and inclusive outlining an alternative approach based upon a community of provision This approach recognises the interconnectedness of services and the significance of context and it encapsulates the aspiration of much international legislation for participation and inclusion for all But it also assumes that we tend towards diffuse practices services policies settings and roles spread across provision which is variously inclusive and exclusionary In seeking to create equitable participation for all support needs to shift its focus from the individual to this diffuse network of contexts Must Inclusion be Special emerges from the research base which problematises inclusion and special education drawing upon examples from many countries It also refers to the author s research into pedagogy language and policy and his experiences as a teacher and the parent of a child identified with special educational needs
