Psychological perspectives on expertise Guillermo Campitelli, Michael H Connors, Merim Bilalić, David Zachary Hambrick, 2015-05-19 Experts are persons who are very knowledgeable about or skillful in a particular area The aim of this Research Topic is to advance knowledge in the understanding of the phenomenon of expertise by putting together different lines of research that directly or indirectly study expertise Herbert Simon's expertise studies initiated two lines of research One is interested in elucidating the cognitive processes underlying expertise and the other investigates how expertise develops These lines of research started with studies comparing experts and novices in chess and then they extended to numerous areas of expertise such as music medical diagnosis sports arts and sciences In the field of judgment and decision making researchers investigate the quality of judgments and decisions of experts in different professions e.g. clinical psychologists, medical practitioners, judges, meteorologists, stock brokers. Those lines of research explicitly investigate the topic of expertise but there are other research areas that make a substantial contribution to understanding expertise. Scholars in language acquisition and in face perception for example investigate cognitive processes and development of expertise in areas in which almost everyone becomes an expert. Furthermore, skill acquisition research informs in detail about short-term cognitive changes that may be important to understand how expertise develops. We are interested in original research that advances knowledge in the understanding of decision-making cognitive processes and development of expertise in sports, intellectual games, arts, scientific disciplines and professions as well as expertise in cognitive abilities such as perception, memory, attention, language and imagery. We are also interested in theoretical articles in any of these areas, articles that describe computational or mathematical models of expertise and articles offering a framework that would guide expertise research. Articles that offer integrative approaches of some of the areas described above are strongly encouraged. The goal of this Research Topic is to produce a hallmark piece of work in the field of expertise which complements and does not overlap with the Neural implementations of expertise Research Topic in Frontiers in Human Neuroscience. The Education Invasion Joy Pullmann, 2017-03-14. Most Americans had no idea what Common Core was in 2013 according to polls. But it had been creeping into schools nationwide over the previous three years and children were feeling its effects. They cried over math homework so mystifying their parents could not help them even in elementary school. They read motley assortments of informational text instead of classic literature. They dreaded the high-stakes tests in unfamiliar formats that were increasingly controlling their classrooms. How did this latest and most sweeping reform of American education come in mostly under the radar? Joy Pullmann started tugging on a thread of reports from worried parents and frustrated teachers and it led to a big tangle of history and politics, intrigue and arrogance. She unwound it to discover how a cabal of private foundation honchos and unelected public officials cooked up a set of rules for what American children must learn in core K-12 classes and how the Obama administration pressured states to adopt them. Thus a federalized education scheme took root despite legal prohibitions against federal involvement in curriculum. Common Core and its testing regime were touted as an absolute game-changer in public education yet the evidence so far suggests that kids are actually learning less under it. Why then was such a costly and disruptive agenda imposed on the nation's schools? Who benefits? And how can citizens regain local self-governance in education so their children's minds will be fed a more nourishing intellectual diet and be protected from the experiments of emboldened bureaucrats? The Education Invasion offers answers and remedies. Beautiful doom Jacqueline Bolton, Nicholas Holden, 2025-04-01.
