Market Solutions For Social And Environmental Problems Social Policy Bonds:

Market Solutions for Social and Environmental Problems Ronnie Horesh, 2011-02-18 Social Policy Bonds are a radical new financial instrument designed to inject market incentives into the achievement of social and environmental goals. These can include global goals such as an end to climate change and violent conflict or national goals such as improved health and literacy and lower rates of crime and unemployment. Social Policy Bonds would target agreed explicit outcomes and reward people for achieving them however they do so. This book is a thorough and entertaining description of how current policymaking is flawed and how Social Policy Bonds could put it right.

Making Relational Care Work for Older People Jenny Kartupelis, 2020-10-06 This book explores the concept of relational care: what it feels like for older people and for carers; why it makes life happier; and how those involved in residential or community care can make it work. Relational care is gaining traction as its benefits to individuals and society become recognised. This accessible book, based on real life models and in depth interviews, explores fresh ways that relational care can be facilitated in a variety of settings. It looks at practice in terms of team management, support for care workers, technology design and architecture, intergenerational and multidisciplinary models, and their implications for resilience, wellbeing, policy and future funding. Chapters are arranged by theme and provide descriptions, learning points and resources for each model, as well as incorporating a wealth of interviews giving insights into the lived experience of relational care. This is a lively book full of realistic ideas and information for everyone who wants to find out more about access or implement the best in care: the best for older people, their families, care workers, management and society.

Handbook on Social Innovation and Social Policy Stephen Sinclair, Simone Baglioni, 2024-03-14 Applying a critical perspective to stimulate dialogue and mutual learning between the interconnected fields of social innovation and social policy analysis, this dynamic Handbook investigates the often contested relationship between these two areas of enquiry and practice. Bringing together discerning contributions from a diverse team of international scholars and analysts, it explores key policy insights, practical lessons and advances in theoretical understanding which can be drawn from social innovation and social policy.

Solving the World's Problems Ronnie Horesh, 2004-12 Violent political conflict and climate change threaten us all. Governments and international bodies have failed to respond in any meaningful way. They continue to fund activities and institutions that are only tenuously linked with social and environmental goals. Social Policy Bonds are a new financial instrument that could revolutionize policymaking. By issuing them, governments and the private sector could inextricably tie rewards to outcomes and inject market incentives into the achievement of such universally desired goals as world peace and climate stability. Ronnie Horesh's Social Policy Bond concept has been praised by distinguished economists. He has spoken about it in such forums as the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development, OECD, Cambridge University, and think tanks in the United Kingdom, Australia, and New Zealand.
