M. Hüsken, 2007 For the Middle Ages and Renaissance meaning and power were created and propagated through public performance Processions coronations speeches trials and executions are all types of public performance that were both acts and texts acts that originated in the texts that gave them their ideological grounding texts that bring to us today a trace of their actual performance Literature as well was for the pre modern public a type of performance throughout the medieval and early modern periods we see a constant tension and negotiation between the oral aural delivery of the literary work and the eventual silent read reception of its written text The current volume of essays examines the plurality of forms and meanings given to performance in the Middle Ages and Renaissance through discussion of the essential performance text relationship The authors of the essays represent a variety of scholarly disciplines and subject matter from the performed life of the Dominican preacher to coronation processions to book presentations from satirical music speeches to the rendering of widow portraits to the performance of romance and pious narrative Diverse in their objects of study the essays in this volume all examine the links between the actual events of public performance and the textual origins and subsequent representation of those performances      The Classics in the Middle Ages State University of New York at Binghamton. Concepts of the hero in the Middle Ages and the Renaissance : papers of the fourth and fifth Annual Conference of the Center for Medieval and Early Renaissance Studies, State University of New York at Binghamton, 2-3 May 1970, 1-2 May 1971 Bernard Felix Huppé, 1975      Essays on the Medieval Period and the Renaissance Larisa Kocic-Zámbó, Ágnes Matuska, 2018-12-05 This collection brings together extended versions of papers delivered at the 2015 meeting of the Hungarian Society for the Study of English HUSSE The timeframe the papers deal with starting with 15th century devotional texts including Tudor interludes Shakespearean plays and their adaptations and ending in Milton embraces three centuries of the history of English literature As such the contributions offer not only a variety of methodological approaches and disciplinary perspectives but also highlight converging problems within this broad field crystallized around three main topics of scholarship and constituting the three thematic parts of the volume each containing three to four chapters The first part entitled Medieval and Early Modern Experiments with Genre offers a set of readings that interpret texts in the light of their generic and thematic innovativeness Attesting to the multiple ways in which Shakespeare is made our contemporary the second part Shakespearean Texts and Adaptations Our Contemporaries is comprised of essays on contemporary adaptations of Shakespeare and Renaissance theatre taking the term adaptation in a broad sense The contributions in the third part of the volume Perspectives on Milton all focus on John Milton highlighting debates or underrepresented discourses in Milton studies What connects the papers of the volume as a whole is the reinterpretation of traditional critical assumptions through innovative methods including viewpoints integrated from other disciplines and discourses such as theatre studies digital humanities and social sciences addressing the relevance of both traditional and innovative topics within English studies in a contemporary academic context      The Middle Ages to the Early Renaissance Joseph Fattorusso, 1952      Concepts of the Hero in the Middle Ages and the Renaissance Norman T. Burns, Christopher J. Reagan, 1975      Reinventing the Middle Ages & the Renaissance William F. Gentrup, 1998 The fourteen essays presented in this volume contribute substantially to the study of the reinvention of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance They take an historicized approach to constructions of the past and most address the relatively new field of Medievalism All of them focus on how and why the present of any period uses the past to promote its own opinions beliefs doctrines or views In particular the volume demonstrates that reinventions of past eras or figures can be motivated by a nationalistic desire to create cultural roots to discover origins that justify a regime or group's self identity to appropriate a cultural icon or neglected author for a particular political agenda or to reflect on contemporary social issues via a remote time and place Reworkings or adaptations of earlier culture often tell us more about the age in which they were produced than the one revived or revisited This volume features five essays that treat medieval subjects four focus on Tudor and Stuart figures religion or politics and five concentrate on nineteenth century uses of medieval or early modern events literary conventions settings and themes
