Apartheid's Black Soldiers Lennart Bolliger,2021-10-01 New oral histories from Black Namibian and Angolan troops who fought in apartheid South Africa s security forces reveal their involvement and its impact on their lives to be far more complicated than most historical scholarship has acknowledged In anticolonial struggles across the African continent tens of thousands of African soldiers served in the militaries of colonial and settler states In southern Africa they often made up the bulk of these militaries and in some contexts far outnumbered those who fought in the liberation movements armed wings Despite these soldiers significant impact on the region s military and political history this dimension of southern Africa s anticolonial struggles has been almost entirely ignored in previous scholarship Black troops from Namibia and Angola spearheaded apartheid South Africa s military intervention in their countries respective anticolonial war and postindependence civil war Drawing from oral history interviews and archival sources Lennart Bolliger challenges the common framing of these wars as struggles of national liberation fought by and for

Africans against White colonial and settler state armies Focusing on three case studies of predominantly Black units commanded by White officers Bolliger investigates how and why these soldiers participated in South Africa's security forces and considers the legacies of that involvement In tackling these questions he rejects the common tendency to categorize the soldiers as collaborators and traitors and reveals the un national facets of anticolonial struggles Finally the book's unique analysis of apartheid military culture shows how South Africa's military units were far from monolithic and instead developed distinctive institutional practices mythologies and concepts of militarized masculinity SADC Gender Protocol 2017

Jenny Hedström explores the Kachin revolution in Myanmar from the perspective of female soldiers, female activists and women displaced by the violence in northern Myanmar. Hedström argues that the household is an inherently gendered, militarized and political space that impacts and is in turn impacted by the external conflict with which it coexists. In this context, women's everyday labor, the gendered work of childcare, farming, fighting and forging connections both across households and between the household and the army and the nation is key to revolutionary survival. Hedström calls this labor militarized social reproduction and in Reproducing Revolution she demonstrates that such labor is critical to the military effort and that warfare itself is shaped through everyday domestic action.

Transnational Histories of Southern Africa's Liberation Movements Jocelyn Alexander, JoAnn McGregor, Blessing-Miles Tendi, 2020-05-21

Transnational Histories of Southern Africa's Liberation Movements offers new perspectives on southern Africa's wars of national liberation, drawing on extensive oral historical and archival research. Assuming neither the primacy of nationalist loyalties as they exist today nor any single path to liberation, the book unpicks any notion of a straightforward imposition of Cold War ideologies or strategic interests on liberation wars. This approach adds new dimensions to the rich literatures on the Global Cold War and on solidarity movements. The contributors trace the ways that ideas and practices were made, adopted and circulated through time and space through a focus on African soldiers, politicians and diplomats. The book also asks what motivated the men and women who crossed borders to join liberation movements, how Cold War influences were acted upon, interpreted and used, and why certain moments, venues and relations took on exaggerated importance. The connections among liberation movements between them and their hosts and across an extraordinarily diverse set of external actors reveal surprising exchanges and lasting legacies that have too often been obscured by the assertion of monolithic national histories. Tracing an extraordinarily diverse set of interactions and exchanges, Transnational Histories of Southern Africa's Liberation Movements will be of great interest to scholars of Southern Africa, Transnational History, the Cold War and African Politics. The chapters were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Southern African Studies.

Warfare and Tracking in Africa, 1952-1990 Timothy J Stapleton, 2015-10-06

During the decolonization wars in East and Southern Africa, tracking became increasingly valuable as a military tactic. Drawing on archival research and interviews, Stapleton presents a comparative study of the role of tracking in insurgency and counter-insurgency across Kenya, Zimbabwe and Namibia.

Politics against Domination Ian Shapiro, 2016-04-04

Ian Shapiro makes a compelling case that the purpose of politics should be to combat domination and he shows what this means in practice at home and abroad. This is a major work of applied political theory, a profound challenge to utopian visions and a guide to fundamental problems of justice and distribution.
