Action without Hope Nathan K. Hensley, 2025-06-04 A study of how writers from the early phases of our prolonged climate emergency used aesthetic strategies to redefine the category of action What does it feel like to live helplessly in a world that is coming undone Nathan Hensley turns to Victorian literature to uncover a prehistory of this deeply contemporary sense of powerlessness For many in nineteenth century Britain their world seemed so scarred by human rapacity that restoring it seemed beyond the powers of any one individual Like George Eliot's characters in Middlemarch or the doomed lovers of Wuthering Heights observers of the gathering carbon economy felt themselves ensnared by interlocked and broken systems In the face of damage so vast and apparently irreversible what could possibly be done To answer this question Hensley shows that nineteenth century writers and artists devised new ways to understand action and hope They rescaled action away from the grandly heroic and toward minor adjustments and collaborative interventions They turned away from logical proofs and direct argumentation and instead called on aesthetic technologies like sonnets and fractured lyrics watercolor sketches and vast multiplot novels finding scope for action not at the level of the theme or the thesis but in gestures and details Ranging from J M W Turner's painterly technique to Emily Brontë's dreamlike fragments and reading along the way works by Alfred Lord Tennyson H G Wells Lewis Carroll Gerard Manley Hopkins William Berryman Charlotte Brontë George Eliot and Christina Rossetti Hensley's study makes an important contribution to Victorian studies and the environmental humanities Intellectual Property, Climate Change and Technology Abbe E.L. Brown, 2019 Exploring the potential for alignment as well as conflict between IP and climate change Intellectual Property Climate Change and Technology encourages a coherent and integrated approach to decision making across the IP climate change and technology landscape This groundbreaking book identifies and challenges the lack of intersection between intellectual property law and climate change law at national level p p1 margin 0 0px 0 0px 0 0px 0 0px font 10 0px Arial China's Non-State Soft Power Actors Xiaoling Zhang, Tony Hong, 2023-09-04 This book enriches the evolving concept of soft power and China's approach to soft power by considering how aspects of Chinese culture notably the traditional martial art and health promoting exercise Tai Chi Quan are being successfully promoted around the world by non state actors and how this fits alongside China's state sponsored soft power promotion The book contrasts growing soft power promotion by China with the corresponding decline in such activities by Western states outlines the growth of Tai Chi Quan societies worldwide and explores in detail why Tai Chi Quan appeals so strongly outside China It shows how Tai Chi Quan introduces many people around the world to Chinese culture and builds links between people inside China and elsewhere in the world It concludes that Tai Chi Quan achieves what soft power aims to achieve a good image and long term friendship Current Index to Journals in Education ,1984 The American Economic Review ,1997 Includes the Hand book of the American Economic Association Alternative Press Index ,2005 World Index of Scientific Translations and List of Translations Notified to the International Translations Centre ,1977 Dictionary Catalog of the Giannini Foundation of Agricultural Economics Library, University of California, Berkeley Giannini Foundation of Agricultural Economics.
