The Routledge Companion to Postcolonial African Historiography Thula Simpson, Immanuel R. Harisch, 2025-05-09 The Routledge Companion to Postcolonial African Historiography explores history s fortunes in Modern Africa south of the Sahara from the discipline s Golden Age as a handmaiden in struggles against colonialism to difficult decades when its survival has been threatened by capricious political and economic conditions and the uncertain present where the continent s historians struggle to justify their value to frequently sceptical publics In exploring the discipline s practical role in past struggles for African emancipation the volume speaks directly to these challenging but changing circumstances The chapters feature contributions from leading experts on historiographical traditions of different regions of the continent They collectively demonstrate how the process of instrumentalizing the past to advance lay struggles has influenced the choices historians have made regarding sources methodology interpretation audiences and platforms This practical application has strongly shaped the diverse forms that African historiography has assumed as reflected in this book The themes discussed offer a platform for inserting Africa into comparative studies of global historiographical traditions whilst also contributing to contemporary debates on decolonization In offering accessible insights from leading historians this is an essential handbook for students and scholars of African history and historiography as well as all those interested in postcolonial studies

National Child-focused Policy Research Agenda 2016-2020, 2016 Written Under the Skin Carli Coetzee, 2019 In this book the author argues that a younger generation of South Africans is developing important and innovative ways of understanding South African pasts and that challenge the narratives that have over the last decades been informed by notions of forgiveness and reconciliation The author uses the image of history rich blood to explore these approaches to intergenerational memory Blood under the skin is a carrier of embodied and gendered histories and using this image the chapters revisit older archives as well as analyse contemporary South African cultural and literary forms The emphasis on blood challenges the privileged status skin has had as explanatory category in thinking about identity and instead emphasises intergenerational transfer and continuity The argument is that a younger generation is disputing and debating the terms through which to understand contemporary South Africa as well as for interpreting the legacies of the past that remain under the visible layer of skin The chapters each concern blood Mandela's prison cell as laboratory for producing bloodless freedom the kinship relations created and resisted in accounts of Eugene de Kock in prison Ruth First's concern with information leaks in her accounts of her time in prison the first human to human heart transplant and its relation to racialised attempts to salvage white identity the Fallist moment Abantu book festival and activist scholarship and creative art works that use blood
