Complacent Nation Gavin Ellis,2016-08-12 New Zealanders are too complacent about the continuing erosion of their right to know what government is doing on their behalf Political risk has become a primary consideration in whether official information requests will be met and successive governments have allowed free speech rights to be overridden Drawing on decades of experience as a journalist and editor Gavin Ellis chronicles the patterns of erosion and calls for entrenchment of the Bill of Rights Act As supreme law it would set a high bar that politicians must hurdle before freedom of expression could be curtailed

Superstition, Management and Organisations Joanna Crossman,2024-04-30 This book addresses how people and organisations sometimes respond to uncertainty in making decisions Those decisions are rooted in beliefs and behaviours that are not always rational especially in response to perceived randomness chaos and unexpected circumstances The author uses a transdisciplinary approach to the study of superstition in the context of business and management taking care to acknowledge that what is regarded as superstition to one person may well be constructed as a spiritual belief by another Respect and sensitivity in explicating individual and social constructions of spirituality is a core value in structuring the narrative of the text The work also explores the interwoven relationships amongst superstition religion spirituality and empiricism and how cultural political economic and environmental factors are likely to influence organisations and those who are employed by them Further it examines the influence of beliefs related to topics such as feng shui astrology phrenology and the I Ching in recruitment This comprehensive treatment of the role of superstition in business will advance the scholarly conversation on uncertainty in decision making It points to the power of belief that defies empirical validation and how it can be used in a variety of contexts such as the marketing of products and images to manipulate unwary consumers or inhibit the implementation of health

Educating Citizen Designers in South Africa Elmarie Costandius, Herman

Botes, 2018-09-07 Educating Citizen Designers in South Africa is the first book of its kind to appear in post apartheid South Africa and it is therefore both overdue and extremely welcome. The book aims at sharing critical citizenship design teaching and learning pedagogies by including contributions from a range of design educators and one student who work in different design disciplines such as architecture, graphic and product design. Critical citizenship education is explicated in relation to a range of theories and new and existing models. Numerous contemporary case studies and examples of design projects from a range of South African Higher Education Institutions are included. As such a variety of perspectives emerge including the consensual where the aim of critical citizenship education is viewed as promoting social justice, shared values and critical thinking to the conflicting where critiques are levelled against conceptions of critical citizenship education. Contentious, contesting and contradictory views are inevitable and necessary given the South African context as it is only in open debate that the one point of agreement among the authors, the need for social change, can be worked towards. Prof Deirdre Pretorius, University of Johannesburg.

Affirmative Intervention to Support Multispecies Relationships Janet J.

McIntyre-Mills, 2024-11-29 This book offers a pioneering approach to collaborative co-authorship integrating storytelling, participatory action research and innovative uses of technology like Zoom to bridge geographical and cultural divides. The authors emphasize authentic dialogue using a form of metalogue to ensure all voices are heard and respected, thus avoiding ventriloquy (speaking for or over others). Their praxis revolves around performative and regenerative projects involving indigenous custodians, academics, students and community members aiming to address Species Apartheid and promote a more inclusive and sustainable future. The book's engagement model includes inner work focusing on critical analysis and analytical meditation on values and their consequences, outer work involving transformative education and organic food production workshops to engage a broad community of practice, and future work exploring narrative and if-then scenarios to envision new possibilities with an emphasis on creativity and courage. The authors draw inspiration from diverse sources including Indigenous knowledge systems and various academic institutes and organizations. Through their collaborative efforts, they aim to create a more inclusive, sustainable and just world.

Making extensive use of archival material and Hayek's own published writings, it presents a strong challenge to perceptions of the economist's life and thought. In this volume, chapters canvas subjects such as the relationship between the Austrian School of Economics and the Cold War, the Hapsburg Empire and the overthrow or planned overthrow of democracy in a variety of countries, with a view to examining the process by which economics is constructed and disseminated.
