Abstract: Staphylococcus aureus is a leading cause of nosocomial infection. The purpose of this study was to determine the prevalence of S. aureus in the hospital environment. A total of 100 samples were collected from the hospital environment. The results showed that 60% of the samples were positive for S. aureus. The most common isolates were from the hospital environment. The results of this study indicate that S. aureus is a significant cause of nosocomial infection in the hospital environment.

Discussion
This study was the first to examine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact exercise program on the health-related quality of life of older adults with arthritis. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact exercise program can improve the health-related quality of life of older adults with arthritis. The results of this study also suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact exercise program can improve the physical function, social function, and mental health of older adults with arthritis. The results of this study also suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact exercise program can improve the overall health-related quality of life of older adults with arthritis. The results of this study also suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact exercise program can improve the physical function, social function, and mental health of older adults with arthritis. The results of this study also suggest that a 12-week, low-intensity, low-impact exercise program can improve the overall health-related quality of life of older adults with arthritis.

The following table shows the results of the regression analysis for the dependent variable "Number of children in the household" (N = 1,000). The independent variables are "Age of the head of household" and "Gender of the head of household". The table includes the coefficient estimates, standard errors, t-statistics, and p-values for each variable.

Variable	Coefficient	Standard Error	t-statistic	p-value
Age of the head of household	0.05	0.02	2.50	0.01
Gender of the head of household (Male = 1, Female = 0)	-0.10	0.03	-3.33	0.00
Constant	1.50	0.10	15.00	0.00

The regression results indicate that the number of children in the household is positively related to the age of the head of household and negatively related to the gender of the head of household. Specifically, for every one-year increase in the age of the head of household, the number of children in the household increases by 0.05, holding all other variables constant. Conversely, for every one-unit increase in the gender variable (from female to male), the number of children in the household decreases by 0.10, holding all other variables constant.
