Croarkin,Stephanie H. cutting edge research area where brain response to therapeutic intervention can be closely tracked with electroencephalography or other brain imaging modalities Research using neuroscience tools to track brain response to clinical interventions is beginning to yield novel insights into the etiopathogenesis of psychiatric illness and is providing preliminary feedback around how therapeutic interventions work in the brain to bring about symptom improvement Using these novel approaches neuroscience research may soon move into the clinical realm to target early pathophysiology and tailor treatments to both individuals and specific neurodevelopmental trajectories in an effort to alter the course of development and mitigate risk for a lifetime of morbidity and ineffective treatments Excitement and progress in these areas must be tempered with safety and ethical considerations for these vulnerable populations This research topic focuses on efforts to use neuroscience research tools to identify brain based biomarkers of therapeutic response in child and adolescent psychiatry
