Ideas in Quantitative Psychology and Measurement Ioannis Tsaousis, Nikolaos Tsigilis, Georgios Sideridis, Iasonas Lamprianou, 2024-09-12 Validity of scores is the ultimate goal of measurement The concept of measurement validity is severely challenged for methodological and statistical decisions during the assessment and analysis process Thus the present

Research Topic is proposed as a means to provide new knowledge and ideas related to measurement. It is designed to address issues of measurement reliability and validity, new advances in the measurement of these concepts and the methodologies involved to attain them. The use of new software and routines will target at making accessible these concepts so that the papers will be easily accessible by a broad audience of researchers in the social sciences. The goal of the present proposal is to provide new knowledge in psychometrics. Topics of interest are the following but are not limited to those: Any work related to improving measurement is potentially of interest to this issue. Examples include confirmatory factor analysis, item response theory, measurement invariance, Bayesian applications of measurement reliability in longitudinal designs, invariance in longitudinal and cross sectional designs, parametric and non parametric extension of item response models, analysis of response times, analyses of aberrant behavior, systematic measurement error, the roles of personal characteristics in measurement scaling systems and evaluation, item position effects, analysis of distractors, detection of cheating and guessing, nested model applications of the above concepts, latent class and latent profile models, cognitive diagnostic models, classification models, computerized adaptive testing, multistage testing, cross validation, simulations of all the above, power analyses, extension of descriptive fit indices, analysis of response vectors etc. Applications of the above concepts and use of specific software routines is especially encouraged.

Equity and Internationalization on Campus Kaela Jubas, 2018-09-11

Every day we hear how people, organizations and ideas are moving across borders. We also hear about fairness and justice as fundamental social values. How though do these two discourses, one related to internationalization and the other to equity, converge in lived experience? The post secondary institution is one setting where that question might be asked and people who are minoritized for their gender or sexual identities can provide important answers. While equity oriented discourses assure LGBT people that they will be free from harassment and discrimination, an internationalization discourse might call them to engage in places where they are illegal. Equity and Internationalization on Campus shares findings from a Canadian study that explored how LGBT or ally post secondary faculty, students and staff encountered these two discourses. It offers much to scholars and staff committed to developing an equitable version of internationalization and an international version of equity.
