The power of vaccines

For the world's population, access to an injection programme and general good health shouldn't be a matter of the luck of the draw. Scientific advances have concentrated on diseases more prevalent in richer countries and appear to have neglected the plight of the poor – especially in third world countries – suffering from diseases that are routinely classified as easily preventable.

37

The good news is that we can save these lives. Measles, polio, whooping cough, yellow fever – diseases that debilitate, disfigure and kill millions of children can be prevented with existing vaccines. Parents in developing countries often walk miles, or pay high prices to get the precious shots. They know that their children need some vaccines that parents in developed countries take for granted.

38

When we first turned our attention to philanthropy, it seemed natural to extend technology to classrooms and libraries. Technology clearly can transform and empower its users. But our thinking crystallised as we learned of an even greater need – impoverished children stricken with preventable diseases. One man has already made a great difference in the world.

39

The power of vaccines – the most cost-effective medical intervention ever invented – lies in their ability to prevent rather than treat disease. It's often the case that it is not until we become parents that we fully appreciate the virtues of having a form of medical intervention that protects before limbs go limp or hearts stop beating. Today vaccines save the lives of some 3 million children each year – children who are fortunate enough to have been born in countries with effective health systems, adequate vaccination supplies and trained health personnel.

40

Access to safe, effective vaccines to such diseases should not be dictated by circumstance. That is why a commitment was made by the Global Fund for Children's Vaccines a year ago. The goal of the Global Fund, and the partners of the Global Alliance for Vaccines and Immunisation, is to ensure that every child has access to lifesaving vaccines. An estimated 6 billion pounds over the next five years will cover the cost of fully immunising children in developing countries.

41

In the 1970s only 5% of the world's children could expect to be fully immunised. Today, thanks to these "rich" nations, alongside the work of countless dedicated health professionals worldwide, we can envision a time when 70, 80, and finally 100 percent of children are protected. And at a cost of 10 to 15 pounds per child, vaccines are a small investment for a very big return.

42

The dedication of resources to speed the discovery of new vaccines must also be a priority. Scientists and organisations like the International AIDS Vaccination Initiative are currently working to develop vaccines for the top three killer diseases – AIDS, Malaria, and tuberculosis. If they find them, perhaps the more daunting challenge will be to distribute them to those who need them most.

43

Gandhi once said that for him the Golden Rule meant that he could not enjoy things denied to other people. We should strive to ensure that health and freedom from these terrible diseases is something that no parent is denied.
