May 18th by Jonathan Sarfin

Our first full day in Shanghai was very cool. We had a delicious breakfast with dumplings and congee, tofu and fried dough and then we went off to our first seminar at Shanghai University. I didn't know exactly what to expect, what the format would be or how formal the conversation was, but we were all very pleased and a little surprised to be engaged in a casual but lively conversation with our 10 counterparts from Shanghai U. It took us a little while to get acclimated, but all of us were very curious and had many questions to ask, not necessarily about politics or economics (although those did come up) but mostly about our lives in general, about our schooling and our thoughts about university. Some of our group was amazed that it only costs 6000 kuai per year to go to such a well-renowned university. On the other hand, Eric and Lynn (two of the Shanghai U students) were similarly shocked that tuition is so expensive in the United States. They expressed this sentiment again at lunch, which I really quite enjoyed. All 20 of us had lunch together, intermingling at tables with our food before us and getting to know each other. The lunch, even more casual than the seminar (for we were not separated by a long table as at the seminar) was probably my favorite part. Unfortunately we had to depart sooner than I would have liked, but it made me happy that we could exchange contact information like email addresses and even WeChat or WhatsApp numbers, and I look forward to staying in contact with my new friends.

We spent the afternoon at the free trade zone in Shanghai, which was also very interesting. The Chinese government, as I understand it, is conducting an experiment of sorts by letting businesses trade without any restriction or much oversight, which seems like quite a departure from what one might expect from China. We saw three "exhibitions" from different countries: Italy, Australia, and Russia, as well as the Factory to Consumer (F2C) wine zone. The exhibitions, which showcased all sorts of different products one could buy from each country, were very artfully constructed and displayed: Russia's sold matryoshka dolls, Australia's sold kangaroo skin rugs, and Italy's had some very expensive clothes from the fashion houses in Milan. The F2C was also very aesthetically pleasing in its construction and full of wine from hundreds of countries. We had a very informative tour and saw lots of very expensive wine (too expensive for me!) but what I thought was most interesting was the idea behind the F2C: it is to combat fraud and counterfeit or inferior wine, which is apparently a problem here. It was a little odd to me that one could not inherently trust the source from which one buys one's products, but I think it is better that the government is attempting to solve the problem rather than ignore it.

In the evening we took the metro into the heart of the city and went to Jing'an temple, which was so beautiful in the cool night air, surrounded by flashing lights and skyscrapers. We spent several hours strolling in the area and watching the people go by, which was so pleasant, and going into stores with brands we recognized and brands we

Seidel, Kathy C. Perencevich, Allyson L. Kett, 2007-09-19 In this workbook companion we expand on the strategies presented in the book by supplying need based practical and specific strategies for implementation of a variety of other subject matters The book provides contributions from a mix of teacher educators and practitioners We focus on a specific targeted group high school age adolescents Our targeted readers are new and experienced teachers developing curricula for this group Practical Ideas for Teaching Writing as a Process Carol B. Olson, 1996-02 Contains a collection of specific classroom strategies suggestions for teaching writing to elementary school students according to an eight stage process Specific techniques for teaching each stage of the writing process descriptions of proven approaches for using these techniques are also included A wonderful resource a labor of love from a large talented group of educators Had its beginnings in the California Writing Project at the Univ of California Irvine Best Seller Illustrated Journal Writing in Second Language Education Christine Pearson Casanave, 2011-02-04 Journal writing is not new journals have been around for centuries More recently journals have been viewed as a means of scaffolding reflective teaching and encouraging reflectivity in research processes As a result some educators may ask What more do we need to know Those likely to raise this question are probably not thinking of the explosive growth of reflective writing enabled by social networking on the Web the blogs and other interactive e vehicles for reflection on experiences in our literate real and virtual lives This revisiting of journal writing from a 21st century perspective informed by relevant earlier literature is what Christine Pearson Casanave guides readers through in this first book length treatment of the use of journal writing in the contexts of language learning pre and in service teaching and research Casanave has put together existing ideas that haven't been put together before and has done it not as an edited collection but as a single authored book She has done it in a way that will be especially accessible to teachers in language teacher education programs and to practicing teachers and researchers of writing in both second and foreign language settings and in a way that will inspire all of us to think about not just do journal writing Those who have never attempted to use journals in their classes and own lives as well as others who have used it with mixed results will probably be tempted to try it in at least some of the venues Casanave provides guidance for Those already committed to journal writing will very likely find in this book new reasons for expanding and enhancing their use of journals

Performance-based Assessment for Middle and High School Physical Education Jacalyn Lea Lund, Mary Fortman Kirk, 2010 While performance based assessment has long been a staple of education no book covers the relevant topics for middle and high school physical education as thoroughly as this new edition of Performance Based Assessment for Middle and High School Physical Education This updated edition reflects the current NASPE standards and includes new ancillary materials more examples for educators and a new chapter about assessing fitness This text will help you develop assessments and implement them into your curriculum making the assessment process a natural part of instruction provide feedback to students so they know what they have accomplished and what they still need to do and use a variety of tools including open response questions game play and modified game play and progressive assessments to measure student learning The authors break down this complex subject into easily digestible pieces and show you how to develop assessments that will help you and your students work together to enhance the instructional process in physical education The authors who have over three decades of experience teaching and assessing in public schools describe the various types of performance based assessments and show how to implement the assessments using numerous models as examples to be adapted to your own situations Not only will you learn how to develop and use assessments to help students but you will also receive unit plans for team individual and dual sports that you can modify for use in your own classes You'll learn how to create rubrics use portfolios in the assessment process and integrate assessments into fitness education and physical education You'll also explore the challenges with traditional grading practices and find out how to overcome those challenges The authors provide a wealth of tools for assessing students according to local state and NASPE standards while helping students reach their goals The text is supported by a Web site that includes a test package a presentation package with PowerPoint slides an instructor guide and a CD ROM that includes additional forms and assessments Performance Based Assessment for Middle and High School Physical Education Second Edition will help you develop authentic
