Each section begins with a short introductory essay that provides identifying key ideas and contextualises the essays that follow. The original and distinctive contributions from both new and leading authorities from across the discipline provide a wide, rich and comprehensive collection that chimes with current critical thinking in geography. The book captures the dynamism and multiplicity of current geographical thinking about place by including both state of the art in depth critical overviews of theoretical approaches to place and new explorations and cases that chart a framework for future research. It charts the multiple ways in which place might be conceived, situated and practised. This unique, comprehensive and rich collection will be an essential resource for undergraduate and graduate teaching for experienced academics across a wide range of disciplines and for policymakers and place marketers. It will provide an invaluable and up to date guide to current thinking across the range of disciplines such as Geography, Sociology and Politics and interdisciplinary fields such as Urban Studies, Environmental Studies and Planning.

Kansas Citian, 1915 Civitas/What is City? Theresa Genovese, Linda Eastley, Deanna Snyder, 1998 What constitutes a city? How does human settlement in a specific site create a civilization? Civitas, the latest issue of the Harvard Architectural Review presents a series of provocative responses to these questions. Architects, critics, educators and planners investigate the conflict between contemporary constructs of human settlement and more traditional definitions of cities. Through a combination of projects and theoretical essays, Civitas aims to provide a more diverse understanding of the nature of urbanism and community. The conception of community as an orderly or focused environment in the landscape is an expression predominantly derived from the Western medieval city and perception. This idea has been copied, transformed and even romanticized but today its structure is no longer the image that dominates the landscape from the introduction to Civitas.

The American City Arthur Hastings Grant, Harold Sinley, Buitenhuis, 1929 International Seminar on Urban Culture Arte-Polis, 2006 Strange Places Alexandra Kogl, 2007-12-05 Strange Places: The Political Potentials and Perils of Everyday Spaces offers a conceptual framework for thinking politically about place and space in an era in which globalization seems to be destabilizing places and transforming spaces at an unprecedented rate and scale. Responding critically to the tendencies within contemporary political theory to dismiss places as inherently confining spaces, author Alexandra Kogl explores the roles that places play in supporting a democratic politics of efficacy and resistance. Using concrete examples and cases, this interdisciplinary work is accessible to a broad scholarly audience including political theory, urban affairs, geography and sociology scholars.

Environment & Planning, 2012 Transmigratory Moves Congress on Research in Dance. Conference, 2001 This year

s conference explores the ways in which dance forms circulate across communities regions and nations acquiring new meanings as they travel While the term globalization has gained currency in scholarly debates of recent years the dispersion of performance practices is hardly a new phenomenon Thus the conference includes both historical and contemporary analyses of dances migrations What happens when dances migrate It is common knowledge that founding figures in European and Euro American modern dance appropriated Asian movement vocabularies in their choreographies But scholars are only beginning to examine the ways in which Latin American African and Asian folkloric dance convention has been inflected by European concert dance training and stage practice as well as MTV choreographers By focusing on the circulation of movement styles pedagogies and performance conventions we hope to trouble some of the categoric distinctions which have tended to divide dance research between Western and non Western classical and folkloric and ritual social and theatrical genres Arguably the histories of many contemporary dance forms are more complex than such restrictive categories would admit
