Life Orientation Grade 1exam Paper 2014 Scope:

Towards an embodied science of intersubjectivity: Widening the scope of social understanding research

Ezequiel Di Paolo, Hanne De Jaegher, 2015-06-16 An important amount of research effort in psychology and neuroscience over the past decades has focused on the problem of social cognition. This problem is understood as how we figure out other minds relying only on indirect manifestations of other people's intentional states which are assumed to be hidden, private and internal. Research on this question has mostly investigated how individual cognitive mechanisms achieve this task. A shift in the internalist assumptions regarding intentional states has expanded the research focus with hypotheses that explore the role of interactive phenomena and interpersonal histories and their implications for understanding individual cognitive processes. This interactive expansion of the conceptual and methodological toolkit for investigating social cognition we now propose can be followed by an expansion into wider and deeply related research questions beyond but including that of social cognition narrowly construed. Our social lives are populated by different kinds of cognitive and affective phenomena that are related to but not exhausted by the question of how we figure out other minds. These phenomena include acting and perceiving together, verbal and non-verbal engagement, experiences of disconnection, management of relations in a group, joint meaning making, intimacy, trust, conflict, negotiation, asymmetric relations, material mediation of social interaction, collective action, contextual engagement with socio-cultural norms, structures and roles etc. These phenomena are often characterized by a strong participation by the cognitive agent in contrast with the spectatorial stance typical of social cognition research. We use the broader notion of embodied intersubjectivity to refer to this wider set of phenomena. This Research Topic aims to investigate relations between these different issues to help lay strong foundations for a science of intersubjectivity, the social mind writ large. To contribute to this goal we encouraged contributions in psychology, neuroscience, psychopathology, philosophy and cognitive science that address this wider scope of intersubjectivity by extending the range of explanatory factors from purely individual to interactive, from observational to participatory.

Advances in Production Management Systems: Innovative and Knowledge-Based Production Management in a Global-Local World Bernard Grabot, Bruno Vallespir, Gomes Samuel, Abdelaziz Bouras, Dimitris Kiritsis, 2014-08-26 The three volumes IFIP AICT 438, 439 and 440 constitute the refereed proceedings of the International IFIP WG 5.7 Conference on Advances in Production Management Systems APMS 2014 held in Ajaccio, France in September 2014. The 233 revised full papers were carefully reviewed and selected from 271 submissions. They are organized in 6 parts: knowledge discovery and sharing, knowledge based planning and scheduling, knowledge based sustainability, knowledge based services, knowledge based performance improvement and case studies. Social Cognition Jessica Sommerville, Jean Decety, 2016-09-13 Social Cognition brings together diverse and timely writings that highlight cutting edge research and theories on the development of social cognition and social behavior across species and the life span. The volume is organized according to two central themes that address issues of continuity and change both at the phylogenetic and the ontogenetic level First it addresses to what extent social cognitive abilities and behaviors are shared across species versus abilities and capacities that are uniquely human Second it covers to what extent social cognitive abilities and behaviors are continuous across periods of development within and across the life span versus their change with age This volume offers a fresh perspective on social cognition and behavior and shows the value of bringing together different disciplines to illuminate our understanding of the origins mechanisms functions and development of the many capacities that have evolved to facilitate and regulate a wide variety of behaviors fine tuned to group living
