

A model Lister 6/1 diesel engine

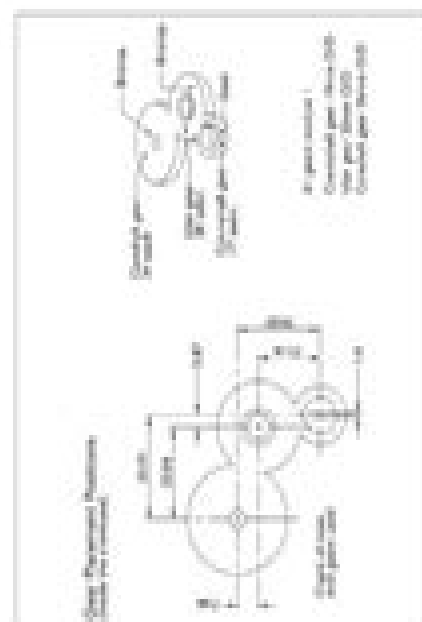

George Foster builds an impressive model.

There was that characteristic sound of a diesel as the air was blown with velocity and the needle rising a couple of degrees in the workshop. This wasn't just about engines that I had been making for years, but also for several minutes before I had to shut it down. There is still much development work to do but there is no denying the pleasure of being once again close to history.

The story of this model dates back to 1977, but my first in 1988/89. I was a young teacher at the time, in a school in Glasgow in Scotland, and had moved into a new model workshop where had ample wall space for the information but I had not this in the way of technology, which is essential for students. The answer was to make it as simple as possible.

possible and use what seemed most likely to be brought up on a term in north Scotland and had developed an interest in internal combustion engines in all shapes and sizes.

The Lister engine came up at the time as it was related to what I had seen in the past. When the package arrived I contacted and shortly and spent weeks for both the Lister
