Marketing to the New Super Consumer Timothy J. Coffey, David L. Siegel, Gregory Livingston, 2006 Working Mother, 2003-03 The magazine that helps career moms balance their personal and professional lives Daily Graphic J.K. Addo-Twum, 1979-04-21 Consumers Index to Product Evaluations and Information Sources, 1990 Brandweek, 2003-04 Billboard, 1985-09-07 In its 114th year Billboard remains the world's premier weekly music publication and a diverse digital events brand content and data licensing platform Billboard publishes the most trusted charts and offers unrivaled reporting about the latest music video gaming media digital and mobile entertainment issues and trends

Bailey, 2002 Bailey examines the viable idea that moms are a separate and distinct group that responds to different stimuli This book uncovers the critical components necessary for eliciting the desired response from marketing to moms and explains how to gain tangible results Born to Buy Juliet Schor, 2004 Juliet Schor exposes the ways big business targets younger and younger children as consumers Consuming Kids Susan Linn, 2005 Looks at the way corporations and advertisers target children as a profitable demographic as well as their methods for getting past parental safeguards to make products of all kinds appeal directly to even the youngest children kidfluence Anne Sutherland, Beth Thompson, 2003-08-22 Kidfluence details the latest research on the demographic and socio cultural trends of young adults born after 1980 Generation Y This what works and what doesn't book provides marketers and advertisers with sometimes surprising findings on what information and products these kids really want and how to reach them most effectively without turning them off completely Kids and branding in a digital world Barry Gunter, 2015-11-01 As consumer markets have developed and become more crowded and competitive so brands have become more important in enabling consumers to make informed choices This book shows how children become engaged with brands and understand what they mean and how their relationship with brands changes over time as they mature as consumers It sets this development against the changes that have occurred in styles of brand promotion in the digital world where more subtle ways of reaching consumers have been developed by brand marketers Children become aware of brands from an early age Even before they start school they can recognise brand names and ask for brands by name The meaning of brands to children can vary dramatically with age As with other aspects of consumer socialisation children's initial orientation towards brands occurs at a superficial level because their level of cognitive development does not allow them to understand deeper seated symbolic meanings of brands Children's understanding of brands and the relationships they have with them may also be influenced by the new promotional techniques developed by marketers Children's recognition of advertisements depends upon being able to identify specific features which signal a persuasive message In the online world of social media and computer games the presence of brands may not be recognized as advertising and so the usual learned defenses against persuasion are not triggered This could place young consumers at a disadvantage This phenomenon has raised important questions for parents educators and marketing regulators and these are addressed in this book through reference to the latest research and writings from around the world
