Context
The Wall Street Crash happened in 1929 when the price on the New York Stock Exchange collapsed. Many people blamed the banks for this disaster because they robbed people's deposits on the Stock Market. The consequences of this were difficult to accept because The Roaring Twenties were a time of prosperity and the feeling that life was improving again after WW1. America was plunged into The Great Depression after the stock market crashed. By 1932, the country was in the greatest economic depression of its history with over 12 million people unemployed and many people starving and homeless. The Dust Bowl occurred when a series of dust storms in 1930s. America losted major damage to agricultural land in some states. This meant much of the land could not be farmed and as a result farmers lost their livelihoods and were forced into an economic struggle. The American Dream was the dream of a life that could be better, richer and more fulfilling for everyone. People dreamed of having their own land and being independent after the effects of the war had been fought. America had always been seen as the land of opportunity where any dream could be achieved through hard work. As a result of the economic and agricultural problems, many farmers migrated to California in search of work. It provided a better chance of employment. George and Lennie are examples of these migrant workers who move from ranch to ranch looking for work and failing to accept low wages. This was a very insecure and unstable way of life.

Character
Lennie Small	A huge man but with a child like understanding of the world. He has a selective, short-term memory and always gets in trouble. He looks up to George as a father figure and takes pleasure in hearing of the dream ranch and the nation they will have.
George Milton	He is the opposite of Lennie both in size and intelligence. He is no longer there and, although he loves Lennie, he becomes easily frustrated and annoyed with him. He protects Lennie and tells him no more than from Curley's threats.
Slim	Slim is the well respected and admired ranch foreman. He is a nice figure with 'good blue' eyes whose opinion is and deserves the men respect. He decides to shoot Candy's dog.
Candy	He is the crippled old 'swamper'. After his dog is shot, he makes George and Lennie's dream become more of a reality by offering them all his savings.
Crooks	Crooks is the 'negro stable boy' who is segregated from the white workers because of his skin colour and lives close to the animals. At first, he is bitter and cynical when Lennie tells him about the dream but finds himself being drawn into it. His hope for the future is destroyed when Curley's wife humiliates his dignity and threatens his life.
Curley's wife	She is the only woman on the ranch and her lack of work in the state of the men is suggested by the fact she is not named, she is just a possession of her husband. She is lonely but she tries to get a negative light and think 'she got the eye'. Sadly, her dream of becoming a movie star ends with her death at Lennie's hands.
Curley	Curley is a violent bully and the son of the Boss. His real reason for hating down Lennie is in revenge for the humiliation of having his hand crushed, rather than for the death of his wife.
Carlson	Carlson shows Candy's dog and is a representative figure of the tough, unforgiving men on the ranch.

'Of Mice and Men' Sample Exam Essay Question

Text Focus
The title of the novella is from a poem called Ode to a Mouse by the 14th-century poet, Robert Burns. It is a poem that gives us a description how easily hopes and dreams can be destroyed. The lines, "The best laid plans of mice and men Gang aft agley" remind us of how none of the characters will ever achieve their hopes and dreams and adds to the depressing message of the novella.

You are asked to spend about 40 minutes on this question.

Show how John Steinbeck uses the character of Crooks to highlight some aspects of American society in the 1930s.

(20 marks)

John Steinbeck uses the character of Crooks to highlight several aspects of American society, including the racism and prejudice against black people, the loneliness of most Americans, who wandered from job to job, and also the institution that the American Dream, whatever version they have, will never come true, but will instead be destroyed. Firstly John Steinbeck uses the character of Crooks to show the racism against the black people who had recently been released from slavery. This is evident from the start of the book when Candy tells George that Crooks 'gets it from the boss every time the boss is angry'. Crooks is unable to do anything about it because he is a black man with a crippled back, who, if fired, will be unable to find work with anyone else. This is again displayed further on in the novel when Curley's wife claims that she can get 'them' (working up to her) to quit even during 'the gas her' (sex) incident. This again highlights the fact of racism in American society as it shows that black people were considered as less than married white women, women weren't thought of highly in American society, but only as objects to seduce and possess. Racism is also evident in Curley's use of the word 'nigger' when referring to Crooks. In fact, although Curley has no particular objection to Crooks, it shows what he views Crooks' position as justified and rightful or else he wouldn't desire to use that language. Steinbeck also uses Crooks to illustrate the loneliness that was felt by the black people and also the travelling workers in American society who had nothing to do other than wander by themselves looking for work. This is evident in Crooks' refusal to allow Lennie into his room, but eventually relent, which shows that although he wants the idea of people other than him, he is still willing to let a promise to himself to isolate himself and stay because Lennie is unlikely to grasp the meaning of racism.	Steinbeck portrays the institution that the American Dream is nothing but an illusion through Crooks as he is willing to join in with the dream with Lennie and Candy. However, when Curley's wife enters the room, he tells her when he was 'just feeling' showing that because Crooks has been subject to racism and prejudice for the majority of his life, it is easier for him to accept the false nature of the American Dream. I think that while Crooks was able to forget that he was discriminated against, due to the company that was given, Lennie, a dumb-dumb and Candy 'a lousy old shag', he was able to believe in the dream. However, it was shattered as soon as reality pervaded the room on the form of Curley's wife, who had her own dream, that she thinks will cover their undergarments. Finally, Steinbeck uses Crooks to show the things that the black population of America dreamt about, because as Lennie enters the room, Crooks is reading a book about civil rights and quotes to himself as the start of their conversation, "You have no right being in a black man's room" shows that Crooks is considered less than on the social ladder but is also concerned about preserving what little dignity and self-respect he has left. He is eager to ensure that people don't violate his rights. Furthermore, he probably wants to be treated as a normal person, as he accepts the invitation to join the white workers in the bunkhouse at Christmas, even though they prompt just a fight with him and use him as an entertainment. Overall, I think that Steinbeck uses the character of Crooks to show the main problems with American society in the 1930s, particularly towards black people and also towards lower class workers and people who didn't have a lot of money.
