Modeling and Simulation in Science and Mathematics Education Wallace Feurzeig, Nancy Roberts, 2012-12-06 The world consists of many complex systems ranging from our own bodies to ecosystems to economic systems. Despite their diversity, complex systems have many structural and functional features in common that can be effectively simulated using powerful user-friendly software. As a result, virtually anyone can explore the nature of complex systems and their dynamical behavior under a range of assumptions and conditions. This ability to model dynamic systems is already having a powerful influence on teaching and studying complexity. The books in this series will promote this revolution in systems thinking by integrating skills of numeracy and techniques of dynamic modeling into a variety of disciplines. The unifying theme across the series will be the power and simplicity of the model building process, and all books are designed to engage the reader in developing their own models for exploration of the dynamics of systems that are of interest to them. Modeling Dynamic Systems does not endorse any particular modeling paradigm or software. Rather, the volumes in the series will emphasize simplicity of learning, expressive power, and the speed of execution as priorities that will facilitate deeper system understanding. Math and Bio 2010 Lynn Arthur Steen, 2005 Math and bio 2010 grew out of Meeting the Challenges Education across the Biological, Mathematical, and Computer Sciences, a joint project of the Mathematical Association of America, MAA, the National Science Foundation Division of Undergraduate Education, NSF DUE, the National Institute of General Medical Sciences, NIGMS, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, AAAS, and the American Society for Microbiology, ASM.
