Towards a rational understanding of shear in beams and slabs fib Fédération internationale du béton, 2018-05-01 Reliable performance of beams and slabs in shear is essential for the safety and also for the serviceability of reinforced concrete structures A possible failure in shear is usually a brittle failure which underlines the importance of the correct specification of the load carrying capacity in shear The knowledge of performance in shear is steadily developing and it is now obvious that older structures were not always designed in accordance with contemporary requirements The increasing load mainly on bridges requires the assessment of existing structures often followed by their strengthening An appropriate understanding of actual performance of concrete structures in shear is therefore of primary interest The workshop which was held in Zürich in 2016 brought together a significant number of outstanding specialists working in the field of shear design who had a chance to exchange their opinions and proposals for improving the current knowledge of shear behaviour in beams and slabs The specialists came from different parts of the world which made the workshop general and representative The workshop was organised by fib Working Party 2.2.1 Shear in Beams convened by O Bayrak which is a part of fib Commission 2 Analysis and Design Individual contributions mainly address shear in beams with low transversal reinforcement It is crucial because many existing structures lack such reinforcement Different theories e.g. Critical Shear Crack Theory CSCT Modified Compression Field Theory MCFT Multi Action Shear Model MASM etc were presented and compared with procedures used in selected national codes or in the fib Model Code 2010 The models for shear design were often based to a great extent on empirical experience The refined presented models tend to take into account the physical mechanisms in structures more effectively A brittle behaviour in shear requires not only to check the equilibrium and failure load but also to follow the progress of failure including the crack development and propagation stress redistribution etc The significance of the size effect which causes the nominal strength of a large structure to be smaller than that of a small structure was pointed out Nowadays the fibre reinforcement is used more than before since it allows significant labour costs savings in the construction industry The contribution of fibres is suitable for shear transfer It is very convenient that not only ordinary fibre reinforced elements were addressed but also the UHPFRC beams The production of this new material is indeed growing while the development of design recommendations has not been sufficiently fast Fatigue resistance of structures with low shear reinforcement is also an important issue which was also addressed in this bulletin It cannot be neglected in prestressed bridges which are exposed to dynamic loads A comprehensive understanding of the shear behaviour is necessary Although many laboratory experiments are carried out they are suitable only to a limited extent New testing methods are being developed and show promising results e.g. digital image correlation An actual structure performance should rather be tested on a large scale ideally on real structures under realistic loading conditions ii The papers presented in the bulletin are a basis for the discussion in view of the development of updated design rules for the new fib Model Code MC2020 which is currently under preparation fib Bulletins like this one dealing with shear help to transfer knowledge from research to design practice The authors are convinced that it will lead to better new structures design of as well as to savings and to a safety increase in older existing structures whose future is often decided now

Precast Insulated Sandwich Panels fib Fédération internationale du béton, 2017-12-01 During the mid 20th century with the rise of industrial prefabrication precast concrete sandwich panels started being used as cladding for buildings Since then society and construction industry have become increasingly aware of energy efficiency in all fields including affordability and sustainability consciousness while maintaining the buildings durability As such buildings have been subject to increasingly stringent requirements which has kept the technology of sandwich panels continually at the forefront of building envelope evolution Nowadays sandwich panels have reached the highest standards of functional performance and aesthetic appeal In building construction these sandwich panel attributes combine with the well known advantages of prefabrication including structural efficiency flexibility in use speed of construction quality consciousness durability and sustainability Sandwich panels have gained more exposure thus representing quite a significant application within the prefabrication industry and a vital component of the precast market The fib Commission Prefabrication is eager to promote the development of all precast structural concrete products and to share the knowledge and experience gained to aid with practical design and construction By issuing this comprehensive overview Guide to Good Practice a better understanding of design considerations structural analysis building physics use of materials manufacturing methods equipment usage and field performance will be provided This document contains the latest information currently available worldwide The Commission is particularly proud that this document is a result of close cooperation with PCI and that it is published by both the fib and PCI This cooperation started six years ago first with comparing the different approaches to several issues then progressively integrating and producing common documents like this one that hasn't yet been treated in a specific Guide by either body This Guide is intended to be the reference document to all who are interested in utilising the advantages of Precast Sandwich wall panels In conjunction with the previously published Planning and Design Handbook on Precast Building Structures the designer will have significant resources to integrate sandwich wall panels into any applicable structure
