Dictionary of National Biography, 1893      The Future of Islam Wilfrid Scawen Blunt, 1882 The Future of Islam is a classic Islamic studies text by Wilfred Scawen Blunt To Mohammedans the author owes more than a word of apology A stranger and a sojourner among them he has ventured on an exposition of their domestic griefs and has occasionally touched the ark of their religion with what will seem to them a profane hand but his motive has been throughout a pure one and he trusts that they will pardon him in virtue of the sympathy with them which must be apparent in every line that he has written These essays written for the Fortnightly Review in the summer and autumn of 1881 were intended as first sketches only of a maturer work which the author hoped before giving finally to the public to complete at leisure and develop in a form worthy of critical acceptance and of the great subject he had chosen Events however have marched faster than he at all anticipated and it has become a matter of importance with him that the idea they were designed to illustrate should be given immediate and full publicity The French by their invasion of Tunis have precipitated the Mohammedan movement in North Africa Egypt has roused herself for a great effort of national and religious reform and on all sides Islam is seen to be convulsed by political portents of ever growing intensity He believes that his countrymen will in a very few months have to make their final choice in India whether they will lead or be led by the wave of religious energy which is sweeping eastwards and he conceives it of consequence that at least they should know the main issues of the problem before them To shut their eyes to the great facts of contemporary history because that history has no immediate connection with their daily life is a course unworthy of a great nation and in England where the opinion of the people guides the conduct of affairs can hardly fail to bring disaster
